Government Offers Another Tract for Famous Big Timber

Premier Tolmie Announces That Negotiations Are Progressing for Exchange of Crown Owned Area for Cathedral Grove Near Cameron Lake—Answers Opposition Leader's Attack

Predicts Election of Federal Conservatives

NEGOTIATIONS have already been entered upon between the Provincial Government and the owners of the famous stand of timber known as Cathedral Grove on the Nanaimo-Alberni Road, near Cameron Lake. These negotiations contemplate the exchange of other stands of timber the scenic beauty spot, which is regarded as one of the most beautiful stretches of woodland on the North American continent, and which has a real value to the province as a tourist attraction.

Announcement of the efforts that are being made by his Government to preserve for British Columbia this valuable asset was made by Premier S. F. Tolmie, speaking at the Conservative rally held in the Royal Victoria Theatre last night in the interests of the party candidates on Vancouver Island. The Premier digressed from his discussion of Federal affairs long enough to make the statement in reply to a criticism leveled at him by T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader in the Provincial House, who suggested that the famous grove could only be reclaimed at a very considerable cash outlay.

MAKES STATEMENT

Hon. T. D. Pattullo said the Premier had seen fit to herald the Cathedral Grove policy of the British Columbia Government as a pre-election act of seeking favor, and had said at the same time that he feared the cost of the purchase of the timber area proposed to be preserved.

The facts were, said Dr. Tolmie, that the Government of the Province had been in negotiation for a lengthy period with the owners of the timber; not to purchase it, but to exchange the stand, wanted for preservation, for other timber in the province.

Mr. Pattullo had been similarly out in his facts on more than one occasion, said Dr. Tolmie, who ventured that others of the gentleman's political faith sometimes erred along similar lines. The time for talk and promises had passed, concluded the Premier, and the time for action had come.

The country knew what Mr. Bennett and his party stood for, and this was the leadership the country would prefer on July 28, predicted the Premier, to prolonged cheers.

Heat Causes Six Deaths in Middle West

CHICAGO, July 9.—Summer heat cooked the Middle West today as the temperature soared toward new high figures and caused six deaths in two days.

Many were the cities sweltering around 100 degrees. Mitchell, S.D., heading the list so far, basked in the sun at 108. It was 106 in Sioux Falls, Des Moines, Lincoln and Huron, and each reported 100 and experienced their hottest day of the year.

A farmer near Lincoln and two other persons in the 90's in Lexington died from the effects of heat, equaling the number of victims taken by the hot wave yesterday.

Chicago, where a gentle lake breeze stirred, was enjoying milder weather with the thermometer hanging around 84. Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis each boasted of 88 while Omaha had 97.

The forecast was for continued high temperatures and fair weather over most of the Middle West, with no early sign of relief except perhaps a few scattered showers within the next thirty-six hours.

HON. L. G. BELLEY DIES IN QUEBEC

QUEBEC, July 9.—Hon. Louis G. Belley, who was Postmaster-General from September to December, 1921, under the administration of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, died at his home here tonight.

Mr. Belley was sixty-seven years old. He was born in St. Alexis de Grenada de Chicoutimi County and was educated at Laval University. He practised law in Quebec and entered politics in 1892, when he was unsuccessful candidate in Chicoutimi-Saguenay in the Dominion elections. He was successful in the same constituency in 1896. In the elections of 1921 he was a candidate in Charlevoix.

STIMSON HAD PACT WITH JAPANESE

Say United States Has Admitted Power of Japan in Affairs of Far East Countries

MAY SUGGEST REPEAL OF EXCLUSION LAWS

By PAUL SCOTT MOWRER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

PARIS, France, July 8.—It is believed in French diplomatic circles, which are in close touch with Japanese diplomatic circles, that Japan, in return for accepting at London the naval compromise proposed by the American delegates, was granted by the United States two concessions of a political nature.

The first of these is said to have been Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's official declaration recognizing Japan's preponderant situation in the Far East. This is said to have been the first time the United States ever granted such recognition, though it was implied in the Washington Naval Treaties of 1921 and 1922.

The second concession is said to have been the promise that the American delegation or certain of the delegates would use their influence on returning to Washington to bring about reconsideration of the Japanese Exclusion Act and place Japanese immigration on a quota basis.

Approve Appeal Of Costa Rica for Return to League

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 9.—Congress today approved an appeal to the President for the return of Costa Rica to the League of Nations, agreeing upon an appropriation for this purpose.

The belief prevails that the Government of President Cleto Conzales Viquez will pay no attention to this appeal.

Challenges Premier King To Announce Policy Upon St. Lawrence Waterways

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 9.—Speaking at a picnic held by the Conservative Associations of Prince Edward and Lennox Counties, Premier G. Howard Ferguson of Ontario, today challenged Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Prime Minister, to announce his policy with regard to the St. Lawrence waterways project.

Referring to the Canadian engineers' report on the waterways project, Mr. Ferguson declared Mr. King had finally been "prodded and poked" into producing this document, which, he said, has been locked up in the Dominion Prime Minister's desk for seven months. This report, said Mr. Ferguson, made it as clear as crystal that the big problems of power and navigation were entirely separate.

CANNOT CLAIM DELAY

"Mr. King can no longer say he is being delayed in the development of navigation in the St. Lawrence because of any power difficulties," said the Ontario Premier. "Having disclosed the report, Mr. King has reached the stage where he must announce his policy. What are you going to do with Mr. King?" demanded Mr. Ferguson.

Mr. Ferguson stated he was taking part in this campaign, because, he said, like every citizen of Ontario, he had been challenged by Premier King in the latter's "five-cent" speech.

"Never was there a more cruel or inhuman statement made by any man, public or private," said Mr. Ferguson. "Any 28 men of people of Ontario would show how they regarded such a statement from a pseudo-statesman such as Mr. King."

Leslie Bell, K.C., Conservative member of Parliament for the St. Antoine division of Montreal, preceded Mr. Ferguson on the platforms.

Reference was made by Mr. Bell to the statement credited to John H. Maynard, Conservative candidate in Northwest Toronto, in regard to conscription. Stating he brought a message from Quebec, Mr. Bell continued: "We are not today concerned with problems connected with wars, or future wars of this country. Today we are at peace." He denied that conscription had ever been a plank in the Conservative platform.

The sufferers charged with their staves and when these weapons proved ineffective fired into the crowds. The demonstrators burned shops and cut telegraph wires.

Bennett pressed his campaign here tonight and earlier at Antigonish. At the same time, the Conservative leader emphasized his national highways proposal and promised his strong support to the Nova Scotia industry.

Mr. Bennett declared that Canada brought in one dollars' worth of goods from the United States to replace one dollars' worth of goods that could have been made in Canada.

PLANE FORCED DOWN ON SEA; CREW RESCUED

By ARTHUR BELL
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

DAKAR, Senegal, July 9.—An oil tank spelled what promised to be a brilliant round trip commercial and mail flight between Europe and South America, soon after 10 o'clock this morning.

The gallant effort of the French pilot, Jean Mermoz, to cover the route both ways and thus to demonstrate the feasibility of regular postal and commercial service by air between Paris and Natal, Brazil, came to naught through a slight accident in the plane's oil pipe when the seaplane was 650 miles from Dakar and over a thousand miles out of Natal, Brazil.

The plane came down on the sea in perfect fashion and the patrol boat Phoenix, which had been notified of the difficulty, was already there to take aboard the crew and the 600 pounds of mail. That was Mermoz were Leopold Ginaste, radio operator, and Jean D'Abry, navigator, both of whom had accompanied Mermoz on his flight from Africa to South America last May.

At present the road leads to a point three miles past Jordan River, but only two miles more will complete the famous life-saving station at Barnfield is traversed only by a difficult and dangerous trail that is inaccessible to vehicles. It is proposed to extend the existing road through San Juan to the life-guard station that is known to mariners in all parts of the world.

Not only will the road provide access to the West Coast for motor traffic, but it will prove of inestimable value to the work of patrolling the seafront, a necessary facility that has been urged for many years.

Labor Government Escapes Defeat by Slim Majority Of Three Votes in House

Canadian Press Cable

LONDON, July 9.—The MacDonald Labor Government escaped defeat today by the slim majority of three votes in a critical division that came on a minor clause of the Coal Bill before that. They were D. Simon, of the Wellington Division of Manchester; Sir William Edgs, Leicester; Sir Robert Hutchison, Montrose, and Percy A. Harris, Bethnal Green. Besides these, several Liberals, including Sir Godfrey Collins and Sir Donald McLean, abstained from the voting.

Political opinion was united tonight in agreeing that the Government had taken one of the highest hurdles of its career. The Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, opposed the amendment vehemently, as was expected. He

HON. R. J. MANION FLAYS LIBERAL LEADER FOR NOT FACING ISSUES

Employment of Canadian People Real Factor Which Liberals Refuse to Recognize as of Importance in Election Campaign Declares Former Conservative Minister

Notorious "Nickel" Speech Of Premier Cold Blooded

Transcanada Highway, Peace River Railroad and Encouragement of Industries That Will Provide Work for Citizens of Canada Features of Hon. R. B. Bennett's Platform

CHARGING Premier King with evading all the real issues, particularly the primary problem of unemployment, and branding the Dunning budget as an "election dodge" with which to cover the real and vital questions of the day, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, former member for Fort William, addressed a capacity audience at the Royal Victoria Theatre last night. In a voice that resounded into every corner of the building, he flayed the Liberal Government for its lack of courage in facing squarely major problems of the Dominion. He dealt with the policies of the Conservative party in a rapid-fire speech that held his audience until the last utterance. His denunciatory statements regarding forgotten promises, ineffective Liberal policies, and insincere speeches drew hearty applause.

He wasted little time in platitudes or inanities, but spoke with straight-from-the-shoulder declarations. His statements were backed by quotations from his sources of information, including press reports from all across Canada as well as from official documents of various sorts.

SUPPORTS CANDIDATES

Dr. Manion urged that Hon. R. B. Bennett and his platform be supported by the audience through votes for D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate for Victoria; C. H. Dickie, endorsed by Nanaimo, Nanaimo, and Thomas Graham in Comox-Alberni. In this he was supported by Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia; Mrs. Rees Burns and Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., chairman. Mr. Plunkett also spoke briefly.

Dr. Manion, in opening, expressed pleasure at appearing on the same platform with Premier Tolmie, whom he had first met at Ottawa in 1917 in an acquaintanceship which was re-opened in his last into feelings of the highest regard and affection for the people of the British Columbia Government.

PRAISES MEMBERS

D. B. Plunkett, former member for Victoria and now in the Federal Parliament, said Dr. Manion with warmth, had represented the constituency in the last two years in a straightforward and most able manner. Mr. Plunkett had won due recognition in the House and had given of his best, which, the speaker affirmed, was at all times great.

The same tribute could be paid to C. H. Dickie, former member for the Nanaimo riding, continued Dr. Manion, who was regarded, he said, in much the same light as Dr. Tolmie when the present British Columbia Premier had been a member of the Federal House. Mr.

Official publication and application of these sensational decrees is expected until the end of the present sixteenth Communist party congress. During the intervening two weeks some details of this regime-making will be announced but in the main they will stand as orders decreed.

This change, which had been anticipated for months, is the most

ATTACK ON C. H. DICKIE IS REBUKED

GALIANO ISLAND, July 9.—The attack made by C. H. O'Hallaran, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo riding, against Mr. Dickie, called forth a rebuke at the hands of the chairman of the meeting held here tonight in Conservative interest. The meeting was well attended, in common with others held among the islands by Mr. Dickie.

Mr. Zaller, the chairman, recalled the unpardonable attack made by the Liberal candidate at a recent meeting held here, at which Mr. Dickie and Colonel Peck, both men of the highest standing, were described as being unworthy of the confidence of the people of Galiano. Both these gentlemen were "good sports" and resented such statements, the chairman said.

ALBERNI NEEDS LANDING FLOAT

Board of Trade Has Plans and Will Endeavor to Interest Public Works Department

INCONVENIENT FOR PLANES AT PRESENT

PORT ALBERNI, July 9—The Port Alberni Board of Trade intends to do everything in its power to assist in the construction of a landing float for seaplanes. This was decided at a meeting held last evening. During the past month six planes have called here, and all have experienced inconvenience in locating a place to tie up to. Plans and information were received from the Western Canada Airways, of Vancouver, and also a report from Pilot Jones-Evans, who has visited the port on several occasions.

From a report presented by Mr. Jones-Evans, it was his opinion that the best location was at the foot of Argyle Street, adjoining the city wharf, and a committee was formed for the purpose of investigating the costs and other matters, and all of which will be taken up with the Department of Public Works.

DEEPLY DISAPPOINTED

Mermos was deeply disappointed at the ending of the flight for which he had made so much preparation, and discovered the leak about 4 o'clock this morning when about twelve hours out of Natal, but it did not then appear to be serious, and he informed Dakar by wireless he expected to arrive between 5 and 6 o'clock.

When he came down Mermos had enough fuel left to reach Dakar easily. The whole crew had been in the highest spirits as they approached the African side of the Atlantic and the success of their venture appeared to be certain.

They were not more disappointed than Dakar, where delight at the prospective success of the round trip was general. The disappointment was somewhat mitigated by the fact that, despite the oil leak, regular postal air line and commercial service between France, Africa and South America, appeared assured.

In order to lose as little time as possible in the dispatch of the mail, the Phoebe decided to turn the journey over to a second flying boat that also was patrolling the airmen's route.

RECEPTION PLANNED

The flyers will get a cordial reception when their arrive here that will perhaps comfort them somewhat for disappointment at being obliged to come down at sea. Dakar has taken Mermoz to its heart, welcomed to its heart and regards them as pioneers in new enterprise which links the name of their city with that of South America as the first stage on this side of the Atlantic for the rapid dispatch of South American mail.

Storage Elevators In Manitoba Are Destroyed by Fire

WINNIPEG, July 9.—The loss of 70,000 bushels of grain was caused today in the destruction by fire of two storage elevators in Manitoba towns.

A much-needed rain was soaking crops in the Boissevain district when accompanying lightning struck the wheat pool elevator at Cross, completely destroying the structure and its store of 42,000 bushels of wheat and barley. Loss is covered by insurance.

The other fire wiped out the pool elevator at Sperling, destroying 28,000 bushels of grain and causing a total loss of $55,000. A minor blaze which occurred Tuesday, from spontaneous combustion and which apparently had been extinguished, is believed to have smouldered down into the stored grain and broke out afresh early this morning.

Mr. Dickie touched on this subject briefly, and said that he had never uttered a disparaging word against his opponent, and would continue to follow that course. Mr. Dickie declared that statements made against himself were best answered by the fact that the district in which he had lived for forty years had given him two votes to one over his opponent.

THE REAL WORK

He stated that Mr. O'Hallorun was taking the credit for getting a number of things for the district, but he could assure them that, in many of them instances the real work of leading up to the grant had been done by himself as member for the district. It was the practice of the Government to defer matters of the defeated candidate before making some of these grants.

Mr. Dickie said that while Liberal candidate had not lent assistance. In this matter, which he asserted, the establishment of a good understanding with the department and with the minister had a very important part in getting for the district its requirements.

He had persistently cultivated these relations, he added.

Mr. Dickie dealt with the issues of the campaign, discussing unemployment matters, and speaking of Mr. Bennett's record, which he described as a man of pronounced British sympathies.

SOLDIERS' PENSIONS

Mr. Higgs referred to the attitude of the Liberal Government, saying that, on the subject of soldiers' pensions, they were acting back down the proposals of Mr. Bennett, who had introduced a resolution which would have called for greater leniency in seeking to establish the claims of returned men.

The Liberals had turned this down in the House. Only after Sir Arthur Currie had made an appeal, and had asked that national promises be kept, and that men who had given their physical health and years of service be given a fair chance to maintain themselves, did Premier King alter his position, "think" Mr. Bennett was right. What the expenditure of one half of that money in this country would have been to Nova Scotia, to Canada?"

The real issue before the Dominion leader stressed, was in the same connection, "Are Canadian queries could be asked. More than $58,000,000 for coal and iron has been spent last year in the United States, giving employment to workmen of another country.

BUYING U.S. PRODUCTS

Mr. Bennett declared: "How can you make a steel industry by the time if we spend $1,000,000 per day to buy iron and steel products in the United States? How can you make a coal industry if you send $55,000,000 annually to American Republic to buy coal; $6,500,000 to buy coke?

Canada's dairy industry," he said "is going down. Under the new Canada trade agreement, which the Conservatives proposed to cancel three years to late. The only remedy was for the Canadian people to have fair opportunity, an even break, with the countries of the world." The Opposition chief stated, and this he proposed to do at the first session of Parliament.

GOOD HIGHWAYS

Visualizing the benefits which would accrue to Canada by a network of good highways, the Conservative chieftain repeating his pledge for a national highway, proceeded, "and we will assist in the building of main highways so that the provinces will be able to utilize the money they now have to spend on trunk roads in raising the standards of secondary highways and developing tourist traffic." Mr. Bennett referred extensively to the importance of the fishing industry in Canada.

"We propose," he stated, "as soon as we come into power, to study this matter from every angle. We want experts—no commissions—to advise us and then take action in the interests of the Canadian people is what we want."

Touching upon the interrelation of industry, the Conservative leader spoke of the value of money spent in this country to buy Canadian goods contrasted with money spent for the same products in the United States. He emphasized how money spent in Canada afforded employment to Canadians engaged in the several industries necessary to produce goods for marketing, as opposed to giving work to American workmen.

"There," Mr. Bennett declared, "you have the policy of the two parties—the one endeavoring to increase by millions of dollars the $2 bills which should be spent in Canada, the other trying to see how many dollar bills increased by millions they can send out of Canada to the United States to buy goods."

PREMIER ENDS TOUR OF B.C.

Mr. King Asks Kamloops Audience Not to Let Local Matters Obscure Issues of Campaign

SAYS CANADA IS REDUCING TAXES

KAMLOOPS, B.C., July 9.—Conditions in Canada, and those in Australia as indicated by the Australian budget, were contrasted by Premier Mackenzie King here tonight. It was the Prime Minister's fifth and last meeting in British Columbia and he h" been reviewing the financial record of his Government. He had, he said, transhanded a new financial deal with the train, which dealt with the Australian budget.

The Commonwealth Government had decided to make drastic increases in taxation in an endeavor to recover financial losses. It was faced with a deficit of approximately sixty millions.

"Last year Canada had a surplus of between forty and fifty million dollars," Mr. King declared, "and we are putting on a sales tax just when Canada was taking one off. Australia was finding it necessary to increase taxation while according to the Prime Minister, Canada was reducing hers by millions.

The meeting was a large one, in spite of extremely hot weather, and Mr. King received an attentive hearing. He stressed the great importance of the budget because, through its provisions in respect to the British preference Canada's wheat market in Great Britain might be assured.

Mr. King asked his audience not to let small local matters obscure the great issues of the campaign. The first great issue was the record of the Government. "The Government of Canada is a great business," he said, "if the Government record was a good one the electors should keep it. If not, they should vote to displace it with a new and untried administration. If the record was a bad one, then," said Mr. King, "by all means exercise your right to make a change in July."

POLICY DRIVES CANADIANS TO OTHER CLIMES

CANADIANS SUFFER

"We have deprived Canadians of that much work in the development of Canadian industry," he said. "Do you realize that under the present policy, instead of making steel in Canada we have deprived Canadian miners and steel workers of the chance they deserve, and we have driven them to other countries. One million dollars per day had been spent in the purchase of iron and steel products in the American Republic, he declared. "Think," Mr. Bennett asked, "what the expenditure of one half of that money in this country would have been to Nova Scotia, to Canada?"

The real issue before the Dominion leader stressed, was in the same connection, "Are Canadian queries to be asked. More than $58,000,000 for coal and iron has been spent last year in the United States, giving employment to workmen of another country.

BUYING U.S. PRODUCTS

Mr. Bennett declared: "How can you make a steel industry by the time if we spend $1,000,000 per day to buy iron and steel products in the United States? How can you make a coal industry if you send $55,000,000 annually to American Republic to buy coal; $6,500,000 to buy coke?

Canada's dairy industry," he said "is going down. Under the new Canada trade agreement, which the Conservatives proposed to cancel three years to late. The only remedy was for the Canadian people to have fair opportunity, an even break, with the countries of the world." The Opposition chief stated, and this he proposed to do at the first session of Parliament.

GOOD HIGHWAYS

Visualizing the benefits which would accrue to Canada by a network of good highways, the Conservative chieftain repeating his pledge for a national highway, proceeded, "and we will assist in the building of main highways so that the provinces will be able to utilize the money they now have to spend on trunk roads in raising the standards of secondary highways and developing tourist traffic." Mr. Bennett referred extensively to the importance of the fishing industry in Canada.

"We propose," he stated, "as soon as we come into power, to study this matter from every angle. We want experts—no commissions—to advise us and then take action in the interests of the Canadian people is what we want."

Touching upon the interrelation of industry, the Conservative leader spoke of the value of money spent in this country to buy Canadian goods contrasted with money spent for the same products in the United States. He emphasized how money spent in Canada afforded employment to Canadians engaged in the several industries necessary to produce goods for marketing, as opposed to giving work to American workmen.

"There," Mr. Bennett declared, "you have the policy of the two parties—the one endeavoring to increase by millions of dollars the $2 bills which should be spent in Canada, the other trying to see how many dollar bills increased by millions they can send out of Canada to the United States to buy goods."

Porcupine Plays Prank on Stolen Leave From Park

A playful porcupine, on French leave from Beacon Hill Park, where the butcher of its clan were under repair, decided to be a friendly one at the home of Mrs. W. E. Wells, 152 Eberts Street, yesterday morning. Instead of leaving within a reasonable time, as the dictates of custom would suggest, the porcupine selected a choice site in the garden, and dug itself in as if for a protracted stay. It required the services of a city constable and a patrol driver to persuade the uninvited guest to leave. The process of extracting a porcupine from its lair is a painful one after the officers who attended to

NEW TAXATION IMPOSED UPON AUSTRALIANS

Budget Delivered by Premier Scullin Reveals Shortage of $68,000,000, in Revenue

WILL ERECT HIGH PROTECTIVE WALL

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)

CANBERRA, Australia, July 8. — A high protective wall will be erected around Australia and drastic increases will be made in internal revenue scales, in an endeavor to recover the substantial loss shown in the budget statement today.

The budget, delivered by Prime Minister Scullin, revealed a shortage of revenue amounting to £14,026,000 (about $68,000,000). New taxation announced at the same time is expected to yield £12,550,000 (about $60,000,000).

LEVY ON NEWSPRINT

Features of the new customs increases are additional levies of six cents a gallon on gasoline; twelve cents a pound on tobacco; twenty-four cents a pound on cigarettes; about $2.55 a pound on cigars; two cents a foot on moving picture films; $5 per ton on newsprint, and four cents a gallon on beer.

Australia will adopt the sales tax on the Canadian plan, only certain primary products and foodstuffs being exempt. Income tax is increased by from 10 to 15, per cent. Postage is increased from three to four cents. A primary customs duty of 1-1-2 per cent will be levied on all imports.

ECONOMIC DEPRESSION

The increases announced today are in addition to the various increases in customs tariffs effected within the past few months, in an endeavor to overcome Australia's great economic depression which was hastened by the big slump in world prices of wool, her greatest product.

Temporary financial accommodation had been arranged to meet oversea commitments, but a permanent solution of Australia's financial position in the London market must be found, it was said. Neither $150,000,000 on a long-term loan overseas very soon, the Prime Minister declared.

OTTAWA COMMENT

OTTAWA, July 8.—Further details of the new Australian budget are awaited in Government circles here. Canada during the last fiscal year sold Australia goods to the value of $16,322,771, of which newsprint amounted to $3,796,158, as compared with $2,627,369 the year before.

In the past Canadian newsprint has gone into Australia free of duty under the British preference, whereas the general tariff was 5 per ton. Customs investigators here interpret the cables to indicate that $5 a ton has been imposed under the British rate and the same amount added to the general rate. With the exception of newsprint and the fact that imports are to be subject to a primary customs duty of 1-1-2 per cent, Canadian exports to that country do not seem to have been particularly singled out for higher rates.

PRISONER WRECKS JAIL FURNITURE

Further Damage Estimated at $715 Is Done by Vernon Meadow—Committed for Trial

As a result of further destructive outbursts on his part, Vernon Meadows faced a third charge in the city police court yesterday, that of wilful destruction of public property to the extent of $215. The accused elected to be tried by a higher court and after preliminary hearing was committed for trial by Magistrate George Jay.

Constables Creamer and Woolen and Police Sergeant Hall testified that on Tuesday the accused had engaged in breaking part of the furniture in the cell in which he was placed, and had then been taken to the "padded cell" with a view to putting him where he would be in no way able to injure himself or the property. Later on, on one of the regular rounds of inspection, the accused was found to have wrecked twenty sections of the upholstery with which the walls were padded, ripping off the covering of each section and scattering the excelsior with which they were stuffed around the floor of the cell.

Clarence Champion, manager of an upholstering business, and W. W. Pridham, manager of a plumbing and heating business, testified to the value of the upholstering and plumbing destroyed.

COMMENT BY ACCUSED

Asked if he had any questions to put to them, the accused said: "I am very pleased to have made work for somebody in this city."

Other comments on the evidence were made by the accused in violent and abusive language. He wished to be allowed in the presence of the court to telephone to the American Consul and to have "his doctor" come and see him. He wished the court to subpoena his doctor if necessary. Other physicians had come to see him but they were not the one he wanted.

Police state that every one for whom he had asked had been telephoned to, but had declined to accede to his request and had denied his statements with regard to their acquaintanceship with him. It is also stated that physicians brought to examine him have pronounced him to be sane.

Marshall was originally arrested on a charge of creating a public disturbance by shouting on Douglas Street. On Monday he broke a number of window panes in the city prison where he was confined.

He far better for a man to keep his mouth shut and be thought a fool than to open it and remove all doubt.

Miss H. C. Rose, church secretary, said that the theft occurred while she was at lunch. The front door of the church had been forced and the desk in which the cash was kept opened. The loot consisted of $500 cash and $106 in cheques.

Heavy decline in the total amounts wagered at the two recent race meets in the vicinity of Vancouver compared with meets last year is shown in figures released on Wednesday by the Department of Finance. The drop was particularly heavy in the meet at Brighouse Park, Lulu Island, from June 14 to 21, the total amount wagered being $480,845 compared with $622,385 for the corresponding meet in 1929.

The total of bets placed at Hollandstone Park meet, Lulu Island, from June 28 to July 5, was $580,868 compared with $776,874 at the meet a year ago. The total amount wagered at the two meets was $1,111,513 compared with $1,311,037 in 1929.

The net tax at the Brighouse meeting was $37,437.66, compared with $50,822.83 in 1929, and the figure at Lansdowne was $30,704.46, compared with $35,090.26 at the meet a year ago. The total net tax at both meetings was $54,136.28, compared with $68,908.11.

SIXTY-THREE BIRDS WILL GO OVERSEAS

British Columbia's contribution to the Canadian entry of birds in the World's Poultry Congress, which will be held shortly at London, was the only consignment from the provinces which was accepted in its entirety by the final judges at Ottawa. Word to this effect was received on Wednesday by the Department of Agriculture.

Sixty-three birds were consigned to Ottawa, where the final selection for the Canadian exhibit was made. The telegram received here said:

"Congratulations. Only province with every bird accepted. Our birds in wonderful condition."

CONSERVATIVES RALLYING WELL

Reports From Various Saanich Wards Point to Re-election of C. H. Dickie

Saanich Conservatives are off to a good start in the Federal election campaign and reports coming in from the different wards, as stated at the monthly meeting of the central association, held on Tuesday evening in the Canada Building, show that everything points to the election of C. H. Dickie in the Nanaimo Federal riding.

An active band of workers, under the leadership of W. O. Wallace, president of the association, are all hard at work, and no effort will be spared to insure a substantial majority for Mr. Dickie.

The result of the picnic held at Elk Lake on Dominion Day was a great success both financially and otherwise, and the crowd attending was evidence of the work of Mrs. F. F. Osborn, convener, and the different committees, who all worked energetically to achieve the result attained.

BRIDGE CLOSED FOR REPAIR WORK

Wooden Barriers Being Constructed to Take Place of Worn-Down Caissons

Protection to the main trunnion and rest piers of the Johnson Street bridge, to ward off boat traffic, is being carried out under the direction of the city engineer's department and will necessitate the closing of the bridge again this evening to motor traffic between the hours of 7 o'clock tonight and 8 a.m. Friday.

A double line of piling to flank both trunnion and rest piers to a length of 150 feet each, is being set out by the Victoria Pile Driving Company.

On the piles will be erected a stout wooden barrier of 10 by 12 timbers, to be bolted laterally across the upstream face of the trunnion and rest piers. The project will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000, including incidental work to be carried out by the city itself at the site.

The barriers will take the place of the caissons which at present surround the main trunnion and rest piers when the bridge was built and left there as a protection to both the bridge piers and to passing steamship traffic. Now the caissons are worn down and the new barriers are being constructed to take their place.

After tomorrow night the bridge will again be kept continuously open for motor traffic, it is expected. No interference will occur with steamship movements during this week and out of the upper basin of the harbor, it is stated.

FULL FREEDOM OF ACTION ASSURED

Lord Irwin Tells Indian Legislature of British Government's Decision Respecting London Parley

SIMLA, India, July 8.—Viceroy Lord Irwin addressing both Houses of the Indian Legislature this afternoon, declared that after careful consideration His Majesty's Government had decided that the forthcoming round table conference in London on Indian constitutional questions would enjoy full freedom of action.

The conference, the Viceroy said, would, in accordance with a previous statement made last November by the Simon statutory commission, "fit in the belief of His Majesty's Government that, by way of conference, it should be possible to reach solutions that both countries and all parties and all interests in them can honorably accept, and that such agreements at which the conference is able to arrive will form the basis of proposals which His Majesty's Government will later submit to Parliament."

FINAL APPEAL

In a moving final appeal, made, he said, "rather as a friend than as Viceroy," Lord Irwin expressed the belief that if both sides could recapture the spirit of mutual trust they would liberate invincible forces of faith to remove the mountains which lately hemmed them in.

"I've heads in open," he concluded, "one leading, as I think, to turmoil, disunity, disappointment and shattered hope; the other guiding those who follow it to the fields of our dreams—a proud part in the Commonwealth of Nations, with honor and gaining strength by such honorable association.

"India today has to make her choice. I pray God she may be moved to choose aright."

OTTAWA, Ont., July 9.—Since little or no opposition developed before the Tariff Advisory Board yesterday in its hearing on the proposal to increase the customs duty on grape juice concentrates, it is not improbable that an order-in-council will shortly be passed making such an increase effective. Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, is once more in the West, but it is understood that he is being furnished with a resume of the proceedings of yesterday.

At the hearing yesterday the expected opposition of the Ontario vintners did not develop.

GROWING UNEMPLOYMENT

Official figures may be accurate but the deductions made from them can often be misleading. This is the case in connection with the last official figures issued by the Federal Department of Labor. They are optimistic beyond the conditions warranted by the facts of the situation, and it is significant that they will be the last figures of this character to be issued before the general election of July 28. The figures are for June and cover the employment situation in Canada. It is possible that they may be quoted by Mr. Mackenzie King in his labored efforts to show that the unemployment problem in the country is of insignificance.

The official statement from the Labor Department says: "Montreal, Quebec, Toronto and Winnipeg all showed considerable gains in employment on June 1. Improvement on a large scale was recorded in Montreal." The Montreal Star takes issue with this statement. The index figure for employment in Montreal was 116.6 on June 1, whereas on June 1 last year it was 119.3. Each point of the index means the employment of 1,200 persons. Thus Montreal has nearly 4,000 less employed this month than a year ago. Montreal is a rapidly growing city. Each year since 1921 it has shown increased employment owing to growing population up to the present year, when there has been a notable decline. Among 900 firms reporting to the Labor Department there is a record of unemployment below the normal of 10,000 persons.

The Star further quotes the Labor Department's report: "Transportation, construction and manufacturing and trade reported the greatest increases in Montreal." It is pointed out that transportation, which provides work for nearly 10 per cent of the employed in Montreal, shows an index figure of 123.1 as compared with 132.8 on June 1, 1929, or a decrease of 12,710 employees in this group alone. Construction also shows a drop of a substantial character from 184.3 to 97.6. That, moreover, points out that Montreal's case is not an isolated one, for manufacturers throughout Canada shows a substantial decrease over the figures of June, 1929. In Quebec there are decreases in manufacturing, lumber products, pulp and paper, textiles, iron and steel, communications and transportation. In summing up its analysis of the Labor Department's figures, The Star says:

"These index figures are a warning post. Trade conditions will be at their worst and unemployment will have reached a tragic figure next December, judging by all present signs and figures, unless Canada wakes from her slumber and inaugurates a policy which will check the importation of foreign manufactures and keep Canadian workers employed at home at remunerative wages."

GREAT BRITAIN'S NAVY

Lords Beatty and Jellicoe, men of the Royal Navy who have been through the storm and stress of crises afloat, are opposed to the terms of the London treaty because it fails to recognize the responsibilities of Great Britain. Ultimately the vast majority of public opinion in Great Britain and throughout the Empire will veer round to their way of thinking. They represent the views of the Navy and, presumably see the matter from the strategic standpoint.

The London Treaty is spoken of as a step in disarmament. It is, for Great Britain, a step in no other direction. It represents a capitulation of Great Britain's right to estimate her own requirements and to determine the measure of security that should be established for these. In effect it places the basis of Great Britain's naval strength at the dictation of foreign Powers. The views of all the countries, save Great Britain, represented at the London Conference were dictated by naval experts. The views of Great Britain were formulated by politicians who know but little about naval affairs and refuse to be bound by the experience of the past.

Earl Beatty has asked, very pertinently, who induced the Admiralty and the Government to cut down the number of cruisers from seventy to fifty. The reply is, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, but that is not the answer given. Mr. MacDonald went from surrender to surrender and the net result is that Japan and the United States, in pursuance of the gospel of parity, are permitted to increase their navies, while Great Britain reduces hers. The Labor Government pursued the role of pusillanimity and hailed it, on its own behalf, as a part of the propaganda of peace. Needless to say it was ship arrested in its efforts to reduce the British Navy by the representatives of the United States at the London Conference. Utilizing the feelings engendered among the British peoples by the results of the London Treaty will do more to effect political harm to the Labor Party in Great Britain than all the other actions. Already the decline of whatever prestige the Government enjoys is being shown at by-elections. No Government can play politics with the safety of the country and remain in office.

A BENEFACTOR OF CHINA

One who may be said to have attuned his career in life to pioneering and philanthropic effort has died there in the death bed of Dr. Philip P. Cousland, who for many years enjoyed a place in the foremost ranks of medical missionaries in China. He went to Swatow first and then to Chao-Chao-fu as a missionary for the Presbyterian Church. A doctor as well as missionary, he became greatly in demand among the Chinese in the practice of the healing art and it was not long before he had built a hospital and compound and had trained Chinese to help him in his medical work. For twenty years he carried on with self-sacrificing devotion until a breakdown in health compelled him to relinquish active practice.

He then turned his attention to translating Western medical books into Chinese so that Chinese doctors could be trained all the more efficiently. In 1907 he was appointed editorial secretary of the China Medical Missionary Association, and in that position, where he served without pay, his erudition and extensive medical knowledge was of the utmost value. To him China owes more in a medical sense than perhaps to any other man of recent generations. One of his chief feats was the compilation of the Anglo-Chinese Medical Lexicon, a work which has gone through several editions and is now a standard reference book in Chinese medical circles. China honored him for his persistent efforts in the cause of medicine in that country. He was an L.L.D. of the University of Hongkong, and in years gone by, before Republican ideas took hold of the country, he had been appointed by the late Emperor to membership in the Most Eminent Order of the Excellent Crop. Among the positions which he held was that of president of the Chinese Medical Missionary Association.

Such a man as the late Dr. Cousland was a factor in the civilization of China in which the white race has done so much. There is little doubt that his efforts have been the means of arresting the flow of sickness and epidemics in a land where, not so many years ago, modern medical science was largely unknown. His was always a painstaking and self-denying work. His heart was in it and his enthusiasm never flagged as he saw the benefits of his efforts expand and amplify. In the Orient as well as here he evoked great sympathy which he felt at his death and extended to his widow and sons and daughter.

THE TOURIST TRADE

The tourist industry in Canada is estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to have brought in $295,150,000 last year. In nine years the monetary benefits to this country show an aggregate of $1,779,340,000. Each year there is a substantial growth, averaging from $30,000,000 to $35,000,000. In 1929 4,508,809 motor cars entered Canada for all purposes and over all periods from twenty-four hours and upwards. The majority of these cars entered Ontario, whose proportion was 2,923,356.

There is reciprocity in this tourist business. Canada last year spent $30,083,000 on trips abroad by ocean, rail and air agents, $65,183,000 on motor trips to the United States, and on travel by rail and steamer in that country a sum of $28,133,000. These Canada's expenditure was according to the foregoing figures, $11,401,000 on travel, but the outlay does not include what was spent in Europe and other lands. That is why a comparative tourist figures are inconclusive and why it is impossible to estimate what is the favorable balance which Canada enjoys in the trade.

During 1929 more taxes were collected for the Federal Treasury than in any other year, save one, in Canada's history. Mr. Mackenzie King is regaling his audiences by telling them what his Government has done to reduce taxation. It was that same Government which increased the sales tax from 3 to 4, and then to 6 per cent. When, in turn, it commenced to reduce this tax it turned around for the applause of the people of Canada.

Mr. J. L. Garvin believes that the problem in India for British statesmanship is to create the United States of Hindustan. That is the question, not one of Dominion status. Of the latter he says, "Dominion status by itself is a phrase that solves nothing and falsifies everything. You might as well talk of 'Dominion Status' as a simplifying solution for the universe."

THE AMERICAN "TALKIE"

It is notorious that reasonable people who are concerned for the purity of English speech have been much perturbed by the invasion of "talkies" in which characters supposed to be in English surroundings emit sounds which are caricatures of English words. There used to be a favorite form of comedy in France which professed to satirize what was called "le jiff," that is, high life, in England. It was, and was intended to be, funny. American representations of life in Great Britain, high, middle, or low, are far funnier without meaning to be so. But the matter is no longer are not amusing. Thousands of people, including the young at the sensitive age, attend picture theatres, and tend to pick up an accent and pronunciation which, in the aggregate, constitutes a species of immorality.—Melbourne Australian.

If a man does not make new acquaintances as he grows older, he soon finds himself left pretty much alone. A man should keep his friendship in a constant repair.—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

Greatness in any period and under any circumstances has always been rare. It is of elemental birth, and is independent alike of its time and its circumstances.—William Winter.

"Twas the Tail o' Shair
And that ends that,
The scan Duke o' Northumberland.

In the County of Galloway, lying on the southwest coast of Scotland, there is an ancient house called Castle Kennedy, and in that ancient house there has lived for many generations an ancient family, famed in history, song and story. The name of that ancient family is Kennedy, and the head of that ancient family, the Earl of Stair, we have learned through the agency of the newspapers, is at the present time visiting in Victoria.

* * *

The announcement that the Earl and the Countess of Stair were in Victoria was of special interest to us, because we have often passed Castle Kennedy and looked with awe upon its imposing dimensions and with admiration at the beauty of its surroundings. At one time there were several castles and ancient families occupying historical seats and owning thousands of acres in the County of Galloway. There were Stewarts and Agnews, and there was Sir Herbert Maxwell, of Monreith, one of the most universally loved of all British landlords, a writer of world-wide repute and at one time a frequent contributor to the most fastidious of all British periodicals, Blackwood's Magazine.

* * *

But from a historical and romantic point of view, the Dalrymples of Castle Kennedy and other places, were the flower of them all. Historically, the fame of the family has been traced far back beyond the days of Cromwell, and members of it had their fingers in every pie filled up from the nursery tart days of the Royal Stuarts, when political involvement in public affairs was liable to land the participant in the forfeiture of estates and the dismemberment of the head from the body. But the Dalrymples must have had some rarity, for we do not know that history ever has recorded the death of a member of the family upon the scaffold. We make this declaration with reserve for the Earl is now in with us at the present time may have in his possession records which tell a different story.

* * *

The Dalrymples, then, were men of distinguished and varied talents. The first of them to attain eminence was a lawyer, who was called into the service of Cromwell, the Lord Protector, who pronounced him a "very honest man and a good lawyer." Evidently it was considered a mark of distinction in those days to be called an honest man though a lawyer. This Dalrymple must have transmitted his legal talents to his heir and successors, for many Dalrymples became famous at the bar of Scotland. Here is an interesting point in the history of the Dalrymples which should be made a note of by Canadians. The members of the family who met with favor in the eyes of Cromwell was created a baronet of Nova Scotia in the year 1664. We do not know whether that title is still claimed by the family, but presume that it must have become extinct.

* * *

But the proxie if remunerative profession of the law did not appeal to the Dalrymples. Like many of the great men of their day they were a soldier as well as a statesman. One of them were soldiers and came in conflict with The Pretender. Some of them participated in religion and with their swords defended their principles and the principles of their friends and the latters against the violence of Claverhouse and his dragoons. There was hardly a political struggle or battle on the Continent in which some of the family were not involved.

* * *

Nor was the family entirely exempt from social scandal. Scott's "Bride of Lammermoor" was a Dalrymple, and that tragic story has been set to entrancing music in one of the most popular operas ever written. Thanks to the gramophone, almost everyone nowadays is familiar with the music of the mad-song of Lucia.

* * *

We can remember a time when one of the most popular songs sung at social gatherings in Galloway was based upon the wild exploits of one of the Earls of Stair. That song was sung only by one man, and sung it but once a year; at the celebration of the gathering of the barons of the land and gentry of the shire after it had told of the adventures of "Jock and Tam" to their neighboring county, how "the guineas of gold they made them flee and sought bae change for them at nome." It inquired, "guess ye wha was Jock and Tam?" and concluded with the first four lines quoted above. After the lapse of nearly forty years we heard that song sung by the only man we ever heard sing it, and we wonder whether the present Earl of Stair or his consort has ever heard it sung.

TRAFFIC CONTROL DEVICE IS TESTED

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, July 9.—A new device for traffic control is being tested at a Toronto intersection. The impatient motorist no longer has to wait until a policeman waves him on or the clockwork light turns green. Driving alongside the signal box he blows his horn and in a few seconds the light turns in his favor.

This device is suitable only for many intersections as ancient family, famed in history, song and story. The name of that ancient family is Kennedy, and the head of that ancient family, the Earl of Stair, we have learned through the agency of the newspapers, is at the present time visiting in Victoria.

The Rhyming Optimist

THE CIRCLE

Life is a circle,
A shining ring
Of changeful seasons
From Spring to Spring.

Summer and Winter,
Zephyr and gale,
Sunlight and shadow,
These tell the tale.

From youth's sweet rapture,
A fleeting thing,
Men's steps fare forward
Around the ring.

All those before us
Went as we go.
All who will follow
This way must know;

First, childhood's hours;
Years fly, life's wane
Soon ends the circle . . .
Childhood again!

Yet this God grants us;
To make life's ring
A shining circle,
A golden thing!

VATICAN CITY MOURNS DEATH OF CARDINAL

Death Summons Cardinal Vannutelli, Dean of Sacred College, at Age of Ninety-Three

HIS ILLNESS BEGAN ON ASCENSION DAY

VATICAN CITY, July 9.—The Vatican City was in mourning tonight for one of its most distinguished family members, Cardinal Vannutelli, Dean of the Sacred College, who died today at the venerable age of ninety-three.

Stricken with uremic poisoning, the prelate had battled bravely and serenely for life for several days. Early today he passed into a coma. Anticipating the end, Cardinal Vannutelli had received extreme unction yesterday. He died shortly after he had received the papal secretary deathbed blessing from the Pope.

Until he sank into unconsciousness the nearly a century old Prince of the Catholic Church continued to talk with brother prelates gathered at his bedside.

Just before Cardinal Vannutelli died he received a visit from Francesco Olmita, Under-Secretary to the Prime Ministry, on behalf of Premier Mussolini.

The illness of the aged Cardinal began on Ascension Day when he overtaxed himself. He contracted a cold which later developed into the infection, which caused his death.

LARGEST MAN IN WORLD IS DEAD

Angus MacAskill Was Nearly Eight Feet Tall, Weighing Almost a Quarter Ton

(Special to The Colonist. Copyright, 1930.)

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 9.—Now that other records in the world have been involved in a controversy as to who sheltered the biggest man, the world has ever seen, the Maritime Provinces have produced a fact with a candidate.

He is Angus MacAskill, of Englishtown, N.S. Angus stretched upward eight feet, five inches, and made the scales give away at 455 pounds.

Strangely, although reared at the village of Englishtown, Angus was Scotch on both sides of his family tree. Naturally, he was known for his great weight. Angus was physically formidable in weight lifting. He gave exhibitions of his strength throughout the Atlantic provinces. However, his remarkable physical prowess was not confined to the lifting at a comparatively early age. His passing came at the age of fifty-four. He was buried at the little cemetery at Englishtown, a few yards from the water, and it is one of the sights of Cape Breton Island for tourists, just because of the giant's grave. The stone is of granite and oblong in shape and the pit is bounded by a stone retaining of two iron railings.

There is particularly attractive to people from the United States the MacAskill grave, because of the Scotch extraction or birth, and who are proud of the glory of the advantage of the MacAskill recognition as the biggest man in the history of the world. Or, at least, one of the half dozen, which is regarded as of the universe, tall and present.

Some of the most prominent men ever known in Cape Breton, the Province of Nova Scotia and many than the quota of giants, practically all of them work at, or descended from, a number of Scotch men and women. The people of Englishtown consider the MacAskill grave as the apex among their best, asset in developing the attraction of tourists to the locality.

START ON SECOND MINIATURE LINKS

Contractor Now at Work on Fort Street—Will Be Eighteen-Hole Course

A second eighteen-hole miniature golf course will be constructed in Victoria, on the Hillsman property on the north side of Fort Street, west of Quadra Street, when Mrs. and Mrs. Hillsman have awarded a contract for an immediate start on the work to W. W. Sutton, contractor.

Included with the property, 60 by 120 feet in extent, will include the laying of concrete beds for the fairways, over which will be placed felt, afterwards to be covered by a layer of asphaltum. Offices in connection with the golf course will be of the Spanish style, and the grounds will be enclosed with a lattice fence, with seats arranged at intervals for spectators.

Brick paths will parallel the playing course, and the construction will be carried out after the fashion of the golf courses of continental Europe. The plans call for the expenditure of approximately $3,000 on the course, and the work is now in full swing. Grading started at the site yesterday morning.

HIS ONLY LEGS

The motor cycle accident served us injuries in a motor accident, and he had brought a claim against the motorist to the court.

"How much are you claiming?" asked the Judge.

The pedestrian consulted his legal adviser.

"One thousand pounds," he answered after a while.

"One thousand pounds!" the judge said and proceeded to make notes.

"One thousand pounds!" he cried angrily. "But I'm no millionaire."

"And I'm no centipede," retorted the claimant.

Teacher: "Edgar, can you explain what Applesauce means?"

Ed: "Yes, a widow is the wife of a late husband."

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of July 10, 1880)

A telegram from Mission announces another arrival in the delta, thirty feet, at the upper end. Many are expected to follow suit.

The British ironclad Triumph, Captain Anderson, fifty-one days from Honolulu, arrived at Esquimalt last night. She is an old type, died on the voyage. The body is reserved on board and will be interred here on Friday.

Andrew, an Indian lad, was sentenced to two months imprisonment, with hard labor, for stealing a clock from a Chinaman on Store Street.

The M. Donald, wrecked last week at Point Ellice, will be a total loss. The steamer Caledonia is there with a wrecking party, and are stripping the deck.

PREPARING DIRECTORY OF PRODUCTS

Department of Industries Sends Out Questionnaires to All Manufacturers in Province

HUGE INCREASE WILL BE MANIFEST

As an aid in the compilation of the 1930 edition of the Directory of Products manufactured by British Columbia industries, hundreds of manufacturers all over the province have received questionnaires from the Department of Industries. Every effort is being made to compile as comprehensive a booklet on the subject as possible, and manufacturers are urged to return the questionnaires, completely filled in, as soon as possible.

Six editions of the directory have been published, the last in 1927. These show the variety of the product, the name of the manufacturer, and the trade name or brand of the particular article. Copies are sent to chambers of commerce all over the continent, and to purchasing agents and others who might be potential purchasers of British Columbia products. In this way the booklet serves as a valuable information and advertising medium.

Owing to the failure of some manufacturers to furnish the data required, it has not been possible to make the directory as complete as its publishers would like to have it. The Department of Industries, therefore, urges all to make as complete and early returns to the questionnaires as possible, particularly in view of the phenomenal growth and expansion of industries in the province since the last edition of the booklet.

It is estimated that there are more than 2,000 articles manufactured in British Columbia, compared with about fifty before the war. Thus, the co-operation of the producers is necessary in the publication of the new directory.

ALBERTA RANCHER WINS ESTATES OF EGMONT EARLDOM

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, July 9.—Mr. Justice Eve in chancery division of the Supreme Court, today confirmed the claim of Frederick Trevelyan Perceval, farmer Alberta rancher, to the title and estates of the Earldom of Egmont.

His Lordship confirmed the decision made four weeks ago by the Master of the Chancery, F. W. Vandley, who found the claims of Robert Pownall, retired politician, and James William Perceval, baker, should be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Eve granted a declaration that the "rancher Earl" was entitled to the monies in the hands of the trustees, "subject to trusts of settlements," and that the trustees should make a vesting deed in favor of Perceval.

The new Earl of Egmont, however, has to take more action if he wants to secure a seat in the House of Lords, for the present action was concerned only with the estates.

MAN HURT IN CAR COLLISION

Frederick Jeeves Sustains Fractured Skull in Accident at Government and Johnson Streets

STILL UNCONSCIOUS EARLY THIS MORNING

Suffering with a fractured skull sustained in an automobile accident at the intersection of Government and Johnson Streets at 6:50 o'clock yesterday morning, Frederick Jeeves, 2535 Work Street, lies in the Jubilee Hospital in an unconscious condition.

The police report of the accident states that the car driven by Jeeves was in a collision at the intersection with an automobile in charge of William Hughes, 312 Menzies Street. The force of the impact threw Jeeves forward and from this he sustained the injury to his head.

Driver F. Woodburn, Constables C. Cremer and P. R. Wooley responded to the call with the patrol, Sergeant J. Florence and Constable Stevenson being already on the scene. The injured man was rushed to the Jubilee Hospital in the police ambulance.

An operation was performed by Dr. W. H. Moore on Jeeves, who now is under the care of Dr. Forrest Leeder.

HONOR MEMORY OF MISSIONARY

Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson Conducts Simple Rites at Funeral Service for Late Dr. P. R. Cousland

DR. PHILIP R. COUSLAND, M.B., C.M., LL.D.

Tribute to the life and character of a distinguished medical missionary was paid by the big congregation of personal friends and churchmen of the city, who attended the funeral yesterday afternoon of Dr. Philip R. Cousland, M.B., C.M., LL.D., at the B.C. Funeral parlors.

The rites were simple and dignified, Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson, pastor of the First United Church, being in charge. In his short address he referred with deep feeling to the splendid contribution made to humanity by Dr. Cousland during the long years of his missionary service in China. He had attracted the attention of the world by his pioneer work in introducing Western medicinal and medical practice among the Chinese, and in addition to this had added immeasurably to his services by translating Western medical works into Chinese for use in the training of Chinese medical students. His erudition and scholarly attainments were only equaled by his deep humanity.

Beautiful wreaths and pillows of flowers covered the casket, which was afterwards forwarded to Seattle, where interment will take place.

DIED IN HALIFAX

Harry Skelton Was Brother of Ben Skelton of Metchosin—Friend of Dean

The death took place recently in Halifax, England, of Harry Skelton, a former journalist for that city and a very active worker for the Conservative party. He had an active association with Christ Church, Mount Pelion, near Halifax, and was a churchwarden for Dean Quainton, when he was vicar of that church.

Mr. Skelton leaves two sons in Canada, and also a brother, Ben Skelton, J.P., of Metchosin. Ben Skelton was formerly Inland Revenue officer at Wandsworth and it was when he was home from there that he first met Dean Quainton, introduced to him by his brother, whose death is now announced.

Labor Government Escapes Defeat by Slim Majority Of Three Votes in House

called it an "unhappy subsidy" which would apply equally to the ice cream vendor and to factory equipments; to banks as well as breweries.

Mr. Lloyd George insisted the amendment was meant merely to be helpful, to the Government in promoting employment during what he feared would be a black Winter.

DEFINITE LEAD

The Conservatives had a very definite lead from Mr. Winston Churchill, who supported the amendment. Mr. Churchill asserted that while the Conservatives had not the slightest desire to relieve the Government of a single hour of their agony and humiliation, it was inevitable that defeat should come and members should not shrink from voting on a proposal which appealed to them.

There was keen excitement during the division and a deadly hush as the teller entered the House to announce the verdict, a majority of three votes for the Government, the vote having been 278 to 275.

Twenty-five Liberals of the fifty-eight in the House voted for the amendment, several abstained, and the four already mentioned sided with the administration.

The margin, however, was far too close to be comfortable, and the Government still carry their lives in their hands with an election in the Autumn as much a possibility as ever.

OUTSPOKEN CRITICISM

Government ministers were outspoken in their criticism of Lloyd George. "The division," said one Cabinet member, "has failed to kill the Government, but it has killed the Labor-Lloyd George entente."

The Conservatives adopted a ruse to cut down the Labor attendance at the critical moment, just before the voting the Conservative strength in the House fell considerably below the party's strength, the idea being to lull the Government members into a feeling of security for the time being. But when the vote was demanded fifty Conservatives, who were waiting in the nearby St. Stephen's Club, were rushed to the House. The Government, however, was not to be caught altogether napping, although several of their followers were not on hand.

VICTORIAN KILLED IN TRAGIC WAY

As a former officer of the 16th Canadian Scottish, Lieut. "Tony" Farrar was well liked, and played for the regiment in rugby and other games. In the Fall of last year he married Miss Jean Gibson, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Gibson, of 1086 York Place, and moved to Winnipeg shortly afterwards with a commission in the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Lieutenant Farrar moved with "A" Company of his regiment to Calgary for the annual training period just before his tragic death. Few details were received here last night as to the manner of the accident, except that the fatality was said to have taken place in connection with operations at the rifle range at the military camp.

Dr. C. Denton Holmes, at the James Bay Hotel, his stepfather, was notified through military authorities here yesterday afternoon at 4:30.

Word of the death of the popular officer came as a shock to a large circle of friends in this city, well known in athletic and military circles. Lieutenant Farrar was very popular and his tragic death will be keenly regretted by all who knew him.

The remains are to be shipped to Victoria for burial, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

FORT RENFREW PICNIC

FORT RENFREW, July 9.—The high spot of the picnic held by the combined Sunday schools of the Presbyterian Church in Fort Renfrew and Cobble and Sorenson lumber camp was reached in the ball game between the Fort and the Camp. With a clear bill for the season the Camp were not looking for much opposition, and were keenly rivalling pulling point in the last inning when the score stood 10 to 8 in favor of the Camp.

The Wharf team had two men on bases, but the superior play of the lumbermen managed to stop what looked like a win for the Wharf.

INGENIOUS

A new office boy had been sent to the post by his chief with two important letters.

"Did you watch the post with those letters?" asked the chief on his return.

"Yes, sir; just managed it," was the reply. "But you made a mistake—you put the twopenny-halfpenny stamp on the Birmingham letter, and the three-halfpenny stamp on the one to Paris."

"How annoying! What did you do?"

"Oh, I made it all right, sir! I noticed it just in time, so I slipped into the postoffice and altered the addresses."

WHY IT IS SHERLOCK HOLMES

The late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle recently revealed why he chose the name of "Sherlock Holmes" for his hero. "Holmes came to me at once," said Doyle in a London interview at the time of his seventy-first birthday celebration. "I owe his second name to cricket. I simply couldn't think of a suitable name until one day, playing with an amateur team, I had the luck to score 70 off the bowling of a man named Sherlock. That decided me—and Sherlock Holmes it was."

SAANICH AND CITY AGREE ON TUITION

Third-Year Saanich Pupils Will Be Taken at City Institution Next September

CITY RENEWS TUITION FEES AT $120 A HEAD

The city and Saanich school boards have reached an agreement as to the tuition of second year Saanich pupils to continue at the Victoria High School for their third year in September next. The settlement was reported at a meeting of the city school board held last evening. The agreements still affect approximately seventy-five students who will be enrolled in third year courses at the city institution next term. Saanich will pay on the basis of $120 per pupil, as before.

The bill to be presented by the city to Saanich in respect to tuition of second and third year pupils in the term just concluded will be in the neighborhood of $10,500, it was reported. The major portion of the bill is carried upon, but tuition fees for twelve students who took other courses after supplemental examinations are still in dispute.

Tenders for 1,200 tons of coal, 300 cords of wood and floor oil for school buildings were opened by the city trustees and referred to the committee for analysis and report. Current accounts for the month were ratified. No appointments were made by the teaching staff, but the filling of a few vacancies existing was taken under advisement.

FINDER CAN FEEL INVISIBLE TWIST

Electrical Instrument Will Increase Safety of Construction by New Tests

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 8.—An electrical finder that "feels" the invisible twists and strains in steel under great pressure was described to the American Society of Testing Materials here recently.

The purpose is to increase safety in construction by making under conditions of actual use tests heretofore confined to scientific laboratories. The device was described by J. P. Shamberger, of Pittsburgh, who said it was designed by J. O. Ritter of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

No longer than a human finger, and not much thicker, it bolts to the side of a rail and records the bending as a little pen-scratch thunders over. It placed on a curve it will show the side twist of the rail under the locomotive's thrust. It can be used on an automobile wheel to detect how nearly bumps come to causing overstrain.

The finger works somewhat like a slide rule, being of two parts which telescope. This telescoping amounts only to the diameter of a lemon or a vibration, that is, something like ten-thousandth of an inch. Even so slight a motion slides a piece of iron to or fro between two sensitized electrical instruments on the finger.

These instruments correspond to the sense of touch. They detect the motion of the bit of iron, and with it the distortion which causes the movement. They register this movement by slight electrical changes.

The "nerves" of the finger then come into play. They are fine wires, which carry the slight electrical disturbances to instruments that amplify them into movements an inch long that can be calibrated in terms of wear and tear.

Mr. Shamberger said the instrument is particularly suitable to obtaining information of apparatus under actual displacement in rails, track slice bars, locomotive side rods and driving wheels, members and suspension cables in bridges, and in machines in many industries.

Thirty years' work amongst the Eskimos of Labrador has not sufficed to dim Sir W. T. Grenfell's sense of humor.

During his recent visit to England, those privileged to meet him heard from his fine manly amusing stories of life in those frozen solitudes.

One of the best concerned a visit he once paid to a remote settlement in the extreme north of the peninsula.

Not more than a handful of people were there, but they were determined to fete him. They insisted on a procession, and placing him at the head, they chose as a marching tune—what else the Mighty Deal Advancing, Satan Leading On."

GARBAGE AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

Councillors Crowhurst and Borden Speak to By-Law at Cloverdale

WARD TWO SAANICH RESIDENTS MEET

Councillors F. J. Crowhurst and F. E. Borden addressed ratepayers from Ward Two, Saanich, on the garbage collecting by-law at a meeting at Cloverdale last night.

Although the meeting was not by any means devoid of questions, a dedicative of the interest taken in next Saturday's polling, these were chiefly asked upon points which had hitherto been obscure.

At the request of Councillor Crowhurst, A. E. Sherwood took the chair. The by-law, explained Mr. Sherwood, had been drawn up by the Saanich Council as the result of a very extensively signed petition.

Although the petition had come from Ward Two, the council, realizing that other districts' populated portions of the municipality should be included, "it defined an area which was comprised of Ward Two, part of Ward Seven and a few houses in Ward One.

Councillor Crowhurst briefly described the by-law. "At the time I was first asked to undertake its introduction," he said, "I had only Ward Two in my mind. Councillor Eden, however, said that he thought that part of Ward Seven should be given the chance of inclusion, and Councillor Borden informed me that there were some thirty residents in Ward One who would, in his opinion, be benefited if their property formed a part of the proposed district.

"I do not think that we could have cut down our estimates to less than two mills," he continued. "Both civic and municipal engineers made exhaustive inquiries in Esquimalt, and based our calculations upon these to a great extent.

"It has been said with a great deal of truth that it is the small property owner who chiefly feels the burden of taxation, but when we consider that he will be asked to pay exactly $1.50 on property valued at $1,500, the burden does not appear very great in this case."

A number of questions were asked regarding the exact sort of collecting which will be "ne 20 cents per acre on assessed land values and $1 per $1,000 on 50 per cent values of improvements.

There had been a motor wreck. One of the drivers climbed out in a fit of temper and began to bully a man standing on the sidewalk, thinking him to be the other driver.

"Say, where the devil's your tail-light?" he roared.

The innocent bystander looked up at him. "Well do you think I am a blooming lightning bug?"—Humorist.

LADIES' MUSICAL IS DISSOLVED

VETERAN ORGANIZATION OF CITY TO BE MERGED IN "MUSICAL ARTS SOCIETY"

Advancement of Music and Allied Arts Sought Under Broader Constitution of New Group

The Victoria Ladies' Musical Club, founded about eighteen years ago and in active operation ever since, was dissolved at a meeting held at the Y.W.C.A. on Tuesday afternoon. It will be replaced by a new society, operating under a new charter and constitution, known as the Musical Arts Club, details of the organization of which will be dealt with at a meeting to be held next Tuesday afternoon at the same place, and to which all members of the former Ladies' Musical Club and those who are interested are invited.

Three members were appointed at this week's meeting to take charge of the assets of the disbanded club until such time as the new society is organized, being Mrs. J. O. Cameron, vice-president, Mrs. P. G. Perdoe and Miss Gwen Harper.

Mrs. W. D. McMillan, president of the Ladies' Musical Club since its inception, presided at the meeting, the chair, and Mrs. J. O. Cameron, as chairman of the committee appointed to look into the matter of a new constitution for the society reported, bringing a declaration form for the approval of the meeting. In this declaration the aims and objects of the proposed new organization were outlined, being set out as the advancement of music and the allied arts, and the creation of a membership fund.

CHANGED CONDITIONS

It was explained that changed conditions, the coming of the gramophone, and the easier facilities for the public to hear music, had made it obvious that there no longer existed the same need for a musical club operating as did the Victoria Ladies' Musical Club. Furthermore, conditions today made it impossible to have a mixed membership. The suggestion was advanced that the programme be considerably broadened to permit plans for lectures on music and related subjects by distinguished musicians visiting the city from time to time, that study groups be organized, and that greater opportunity be given by the new club to young musical talent within its ranks.

Miss Marian Fleming moved that the proposed new society be formed with the name of the Musical Arts Society. This was adopted, and the declaration was signed by the chairwoman, Mrs. McMicking; Mrs. J. O. Cameron, president; Mrs. P. G. Aldous, ex-treasurer; Mrs. T. H. Johns, ex-treasurer; and Miss Gwen Harper, treasurer.

The next Saturday's meeting the principal business will be the adoption of the constitution, the election of a board of directors, and the drawing up of committees. Officers will be elected by the board after the meeting.

VALVE INSTRUMENTS

Instruments which produce music by means of valves are being used in Europe with reported success. They are said to be especially effective for radio broadcasting. The valve has no overtones, though there are four strings fitted in the usual way. When it is played amplifiers and transformers cause the wave circuits to reproduce the overtones of far greater volume than those produced by the ordinary violin. Other instruments, including the pipe organ, have been made to operate in much the same way.

"I don't believe you know what a bachelor is," said Mary's governess, as her small pupil wrote the word.

"Yes, I do," said Mary. "A bachelor is a very happy man."

"How do you know that?" asked the governess. "Father told me," said Mary.

NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED INCREASING

Total of 1,890,000 Out of Work in Britain—Unemployment Fund Is Virtually Absorbed

SERIOUSNESS OF CONDITION CITED

By CONSTANTINE BROWN
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

LONDON, England, July 9.—Increased by 75,000 within a week, Great Britain's army of unemployed, according to a bulletin issued last night, has attained the total of 1,890,000.

Even those not connected with politics are following with increased anxiety the unbelievable increase in British unemployment. The people of this country read the returns with an eagerness that can be compared only with that manifested in the dark days of the World War, when the British public was expecting anxiously the daily official communique.

CONSIDERED A RECORD

This week's increase is considered a record, since the number of unemployed has increased by 75,000 over the previous week's high mark. There seems to be no special reason for this amazing situation, especially at this time of year, when the building industry appears to be booming and the Government has already started many of its "contracts" which are initiated last week the new Minister of Unemployment announced to his colleagues that the worst was over, that business was picking up, and that they might look with confidence to much better times to come shortly.

Mr. Hartshorn scorned pessimists who feared that the 2,000,000 mark would be reached before the end of the year.

CONFIDENCE SHAKEN

Last night's unexpected returns have shaken even the confidence of the new Lord Privy Seal, and unless something approaching a miracle occurs, the 2,000,000 mark is expected to be reached before September.

The unemployment question is more serious in Great Britain than in any other country because all the unemployed are drawing a steady income from the state. It is true that the Government is supposed to levy a third of the moneys given to the unemployed, but the insurance scheme foresaw only about 1,200,000 unemployed.

The number of idle has been steadily increasing, and in this manner the contributions from employers and employees have been reduced. Today the very large unemployment fund is virtually absorbed and Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will shortly be compelled to ask Parliament for a special appropriation to carry on payment of the dole.

Bert: "People always try to rush the season."

Jack: "Yes, you'd be surprised at the number of people who buy spring beds in the Winter."

Life may be a toss up but we can do a great deal to see that the toss is in our favor. The head wins while to turn tail means certain loss.

PREMIER ADDS SUPPORT

Hon. Dr. Tolmie spoke briefly, reiterating with pleasure to his friends and will give him every support, said Dr. Tolmie. "The greatest thing the people in Canada can do at this time is to elect Mr. Bennett and the party which has laid all its cards on the table."

VACILLATION SHOWN

Unemployment was a major issue, continued the Premier, and those who had heard Mr. King had not been pleased with the manner in which the Prime Minister had vacillated on the question, and evaded any statement of his remedy.

In the United States upwards of 6,000,000 of people were out of work, and President Hoover and his Cabinet had taken strong measures to bring about some form of relief. British Columbia had given special attention to the question, and was making plans ahead to provide for an extension of all possible work that could be done with benefit to the province. Yet the Premier of Canada had refused to look at the facts, and had steadily evaded the issue throughout the election campaign, said Dr. Tolmie.

Unemployment was an issue that existed, and could not be dodged. The creation of work was necessary, and all communities, large and small, were faced with the same affacts. This was no time in the history of Canada to hand over the reins of Government to a ministry which had failed lamentably in the past, and which vacillated now on the threshold of the day they asked a renewal of that power, said Dr. Tolmie.

UNREST SPREADS TO INDO-CHINA

French Colonial Empire of Far East Said to Be in State of Ferment

SAIGON, Indo-China, July 8.—Unrest among countless millions of Asiatics has spread to Indo-China, the French colonial Empire of the Far East. A state of ferment reigns and martial law has ranged among the 19,579,218 Annamites and Tonkinese. Natives are demanding a rendition of accounts from the 20,045 Frenchmen who have been managing their affairs.

Political agitators with their European allies, armed rebellion in various parts of the country. The wounded and injured number several hundreds. A dozen have been killed.

Twenty-two rebels have been sentenced to death, but only seven were executed, President Doumergue having extended the right of clemency in favor of the others.

Official circles charge that Communist propaganda is chiefly responsible, but the allies' policy during the war, which took the thousands of Annamites and Tonkinese to France is regarded by the man in the street as the real cause of the trouble. The returning Annamite and Tonkinese war pilgrims had learned the use of firearms and many of them are now trying their skill against the French.

France has been holding Indo-China with a minimum of white troops, about 5 per cent. Only the officers are white.

It is from the ranks of the native soldiers that the most dangerous leaders have cropped up, the armed uprisals of Yen-Bay, in the Tonkin and Vinh-Long, in Cochin China, where most of the casualties occurred, were conceived and executed by native soldiers.

The peasants are content to form processions, waving red flags and demanding the suppression of taxes, or rice, which appears to be the only tangible cause of unrest. They are not armed and generally disperse after being challenged by the troops.

TOO LATE

Henderson's evening suit was wide-shouldered. His figure was not one which showed clothes to advantage, either.

One evening, as he stood in the vestibule of a restaurant waiting for his wife, a tall, pompous man came up to him.

"I say, my man, are you the head waiter?" he drawled.

What Henderson lacked in bearing he made up for in quick thinking. Without hesitation he turned to the other.

"No," he said. "but I heard him tell a young fellow today that he didn't want to see any more applicants for jobs."

"What should I take when I'm run down, doctor?"

"The number of the car, of course."

WOMEN APPLAUD HON. DR. MANION

Enthusiastic Reception Held In Conservative Club Rooms—Member Urges Hearers to Vote

An enthusiastic reception was accorded Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, of Fort William, former Conservative member, yesterday afternoon by the Women's Conservative Club in the Conservative rooms, Campbell Building. Mrs. A. J. Gillis, president of the club, was in the chair, and with her on the platform were, in addition to Dr. Manion, Senator R. F. Green, D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate for Victoria, Mrs. S. F. Tolmie and S. A. Wootton.

In his brief address Dr. Manion urged the women to do all in their power towards assisting with organization and furthering the success of the Conservative policies. He referred to the repeated statements of Hon. Mackenzie King concerning the supposed great prosperity of Canada at the present time, adding most emphatically that in his travels throughout the Dominion he had found no signs of such prosperity, rather was there a difficult unemployment problem which had to be faced.

The subject of tariff was touched upon briefly by the speaker and the importance of increasing Canadian production and restricting the importation of foreign commodities. He paid a great tribute to the Victoria candidate, whom, he said, had proved his worth and won the respect of the Federal House. It was the duty of the women of the city to assist in returning Mr. Plunkett as Victoria member.

Mr. Plunkett said a few words in reply to Dr. Manion and then called upon Senator Green, who added his appreciation of the work being done by the Women's Conservative Club, urging them to vote and to uphold the party's principles. R. A. Wootton, president of the central executive, thanked Dr. Manion for his address.

Miss Elaine Bennett sang two delightful solos, which were heartily applauded, and Eugene Phillips played a piano solo with much feeling and brilliance.

Upon the invitation of the president of the club, the guests and audience were invited to tea in the club rooms, the executive assisting in serving.

Picnic at Chemainus

CHEMAINUS, July 9—The annual basket picnic, held recently at Mr. Dry's auto camp grounds, Chemainus River, proved to be so delightful as those held in preceding years. THE VOICE OF SILENCE

Not where the gray dunes reach, or glaciers lower,
Silence has strength to numb the friendless soul,
Nor where seas vast and thunder-throated power
Chants the clear music of the Cosmic Whole.

But where wheels creak and motor horns are calling,
And down the writhing street shrill myriads race,
There the lone wanderer may hear silence falling,
Stark with the tomb-like cold of outer space.—Stanton A. Coblentz, in The New York Times.

Peter Sees a Funny Nose

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

If things are strange, they must be real.

Peter Rabbit isn't always as observant as he should be. Most of us are not. We see, yet do not see. We pass over little things. Peter had watched Starmose the Mole swimming and then had seen Starmose come ashore. Without noticing anything peculiar about Starmose, he Peter he looked very much like his cousin, Miner the Mole. He was in the same general shape and his gray coat looked much the same. Starmose was an unusually little fellow. It seemed to Peter that Starmose wasn't still a mouse. Most of the time he had his nose to the ground and was poking under the leaves and under the grass with it. So Peter saw no notice of that nose until at last Starmose paused in front of him and lifted his head as if he were looking up into Peter's face. Then Peter's eyes fairly popped. They looked as if they were going to jump right out of his head. "What is the matter with it?" he cried.

"What is the matter with what?" demanded Starmose in his sharp, squeaky voice.

"Your nose," replied Peter. "What in the world is the matter with your nose?"

Nothing is the matter with my nose," squeaked Starmose, and his voice sounded indignant despite its squeakiness. "There isn't a thing the matter with my nose."

"Will there must be!" cried Peter still staring. "I never saw nor heard of a nose like yours. What under the sun did you ever do to it?"

"I haven't done anything to it," squeaked Starmose. "It is just as old Mother Nature gave it to me. I wouldn't trade noses with any one I know. So there!"

"But what are all those funny little things all around the end of your nose?" asked Peter, and he was staring in the most impolite manner.

"Those are not funny little things at all," replied Starmose promptly. "There is nothing funny about them. Those are little feelers and there are twenty-two of them. I don't know what I should do without them."

"Huh!" exclaimed Peter. "I don't see what good they are."

"That is because you don't know as much as you might," squeaked Starmose. "If you couldn't see any better than I can—and you might as well say I can't see at all—you would want something to tell you about things. Those little feelers around my nose do just that, they help me a whole lot."

"Your cousin Miner doesn't have them and he gets along all right," said Peter.

"My cousin Miner doesn't live the way I do," replied Starmose. "He doesn't have to hunt for his food

Prince of Wales Heard Over Wireless

SPEAKING to the National Union of Students in London, England, the Prince of Wales' address was picked up on this continent by short wave and rebroadcast by a network of stations, including CKGW. The object of the Prince's appearance before the students was to promote a closer alliance between undergraduates of all nations and to help them to get the best of their student years. The Prince, who is shown above in No. 2 was first heard by Canadian and American listeners three years ago, when he dedicated the Peace Bridge, between Buffalo and Fort Erie. No. 1, Kathleen Stokes, organist, whose recitals have aroused much interest among listeners. Has programmes cover a wide range and appeal to different musical tastes. Postnuptial Reception Held by Recent Bride

A post-nuptial reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jaffrey, 64 Cadillac Avenue, on Saturday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Randall, who were last returned from their honeymoon in California.

Mrs. Randall was formerly Miss Aunie Jaffrey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jaffrey. Her marriage took place on June 14, Rev. J. Vincent, of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a frock of white allover lace in rose design, fashioned on princess lines with ankle-length skirt. Mrs. Jaffrey, who assisted the bride and groom in receiving their guests, was gifted in a smart gown of navy blue crepe de Chine.

Among the many beautiful presents received by the popular young couple was a handsome silver tea service from the district of which the bride is a member, a full set of Community silver from the staff of the Bapco Paint Company, where the bride was employed for a number of years, and a cheque from the heads of the firm.

A large gathering was assembled to express their good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Randall.

Some Suggestions for Sandwiches

Summer is our only apology for offering so many sandwiches as previously. We have sums to send some new ones:

CREOLE SANDWICHES

Four tablespoonfuls butter, two tablespoonfuls tomato catsup, half cupful flaked sardines, one tablespoonful lemon juice, whole-wheat bread, six stuffed olives.

Soften the butter; add the sardines finely flaked, the tomato catsup, lemon juice and the olives chopped fine. Spread on whole-wheat bread.

COMBINATION SANDWICHES

Chicken, currant jelly, mayonnaise, lettuce.

Chop cold cooked chicken and mix with mayonnaise, using quarter cup of mayonnaise to each cup of chicken. Use as a filling for sandwiches made of white or any unsweetened bread. Make the same number of sandwiches, similar in size, of buttered white bread spread with currant jelly or any other red, tart, stiff jelly. Serve a jelly and a chicken sandwich together.

CREAM AND CHIVE SANDWICHES

Half a pound soft yellow cheese, creamed; butter; one-quarter cupful chopped chives; brown bread.

Cream the cheese and add the chives. Spread between slices of buttered brown bread. In place of the soft yellow cheese, you may substitute grated American cheese to which enough cream has been added to produce a consistency that will spread easily. This will make ten or twelve sandwiches.

HAM-MUSTARD CLUB SANDWICHES

Twelve slices rye bread, half pound thinly sliced ham, half cupful butter, half teaspoonful dry mustard, half cupful minced pickle.

Spread the bread with butter mixed with the dry mustard and place a slice of ham sprinkled with the minced pickle between the slices. Toast. Makes six sandwiches.

FEMALE "JOURNEY'S END"

Following the ideas of "Journey's End," but from a feminine viewpoint, "The Search" has been produced in London. Like "Journey's End," it had its premier by an amateur company, but controlled entirely by women. The author is Velona Pilcher, and all the characters are feminine. The eight scenes depict the mental nightmare of a woman worker in an evacuation hospital during the Great War. Long sufferers extolled the virtues of conscientious objections, and the sacrifice of the dead was declared to be not only in vain, but even criminal.

When has a man horse-sense? When he can say "Nay."

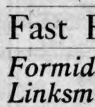
Fast Field Will Be Let Loose in U.S. Open Golf Championship Today

Formidable Array of Linksmen Will Seek Bobby Jones' Crown

Walter Hagen, Sarazen, Farrell, Shute and Mac Smith Expected to Furnish Chief Opposition to Atlanta Amateur at Interlachen

INTERLACHEN COUNTRY CLUB, Minneapolis, July 9.—The battle of the bunkered hills of Interlachen with Bobby Jones defending his national open golf crown, against the cream of the American amateur and professional crop, begins tomorrow with every prospect the King of the Amateurs and Ancients will have a fight on his hands as hot as the heat wave that has gripped this section.



BOBBY JONES

Once again on the eve of the greatest of America's golf classics, it is "Jones against the field."

The sweltering gallery of ringside experts, in addition to a fair share of the field of 142 scheduled starters, was not so sure that Bobby would win. Naturally they regarded the Georgian as the man to beat under all circumstances. Jones has demonstrated enough for them that lane of averages, precedents and all that sort of thing, can be tossed out so far as his golfing achievements are concerned. On the other hand, the professional challenge to Bobby's domination looms as the strongest combined attack mustered in many years.

Walter Hagen, keen and more ambitious than ever to regain prestige he has lost on American links in the past few years, is generally regarded as the old guardsman most likely to make trouble for Jones or anyone else who threatens to move last in front.

The most colorful of the professional ventures has come back from the Far East primed to shoot some of his flashiest golf. As proof of this he has twice shot the outgoing nine in 34 four under par.

Well liked, too, are the chances of such seasoned campaigners as Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, Denny Shute, Columbus, Ohio; Tommy Armour and Mac Smith.

The chief opposition for the champion is expected to come from this group, with the chance always existing some outsider may suddenly bob up from nowhere to send the galleries scurrying. If any amateur is to cross Bobby's path it may be George Von Elm, a consistent medalist.

Tomorrow calls for the first eighteen holes of the 72-hole scoring battle with eighteen more on Friday and thirty-six Saturday.

MRS. VIKE WINS WOMEN'S SHOOT FROM CHAMPION

Seattle Revolver Shot Defeats Mrs. Christoffersen, Portland, in Big Upset at Police Meet

DETECTIVE ROGERS MAKES HIGH TOTAL

Handling her revolver with steady precision, Mrs. Vike, of Seattle, provided the big upset at the revolver shoot held by the Victoria police department yesterday in connection with their annual sports day when she lowered the colors of Mrs. Christoffersen, Portland, recognized as the women's world's champion, in a special match. The meet was held at the Royal Canadian Naval Dockyard ranges and turned out a huge success under the direction of Sergeant Arthur Bibbey.

Mrs Vike is the sister of Detective William Stark, of the Victoria police department, thus making her victory more interesting from a local standpoint. The winner chalked up a total of 41 points against Mrs. Christoffersen's score of 38. Mrs. Thomas Hall, wife of Sergeant Hall, of the local department, was a close third, scoring 34 points, while Miss Walker, Victoria, took fourth place.

The team shoots and individual competitions were keenly contested, with the winners being obliged to the limit to come through to victory. The shooting of Detective Rogers, Victoria, was one of the outstanding performances of the day. The local competitor chalked up the highest total of his career with a total of 54 points.

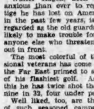
Big League BASEBALL

WRONG WAY RIGHT WAY

BY KEEPING THUMB DOWN AND FINGERS CLOSE TOGETHER YOU PREVENT INJURY FROM FOUL TIPS



By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

While a catcher occupies the most important position on a ball club with the possible exception of the pitcher, he also is in the most dangerous position.

Even the cleverest and most careful catcher is bound to get his share of bruises and battered knuckles and split fingers and thumbs from batsmen's bats and baseballs at the plate. But these injuries can be reduced to a minimum.

The commonest and most painful of injuries to catchers are split thumbs and fingers resulting from unduly foul tips. And these injuries are serious, for they require stitches and the usual result of a player's services from two weeks to a month.

Amateur catchers are inclined to spread their thumb and fingers too far apart when they should hold the bat and thus provide a target for foul tips that are deflected off the bat.

Always hold your thumb down and your fingers cupped close together. This will keep you from a painful and expensive injury and a bad looking hand.

Practice catching the ball with the glove first and then cupping the hand over it, instead of using both hands simultaneously.

It will keep you from having a hand like Jimmy Archer. Rogers Hornsby said, "shaking hands with the old Chi catcher was just like sticking your hands in a bag of peanuts."

Sienewall Jackson Was Killed by His Own Men—Thomas Jonathan "Stonewall" Jackson's tragic death by his own troops, and by his own orders, came about in the following manner: He had given orders to shoot any soldier approaching from the opposite direction in the place where they were encamped. But at the end of a victorious day he was returning from a personal reconnoitering of the hostile camp, when the Confederate pickets mistook him for a Federal and shot him fatally in accordance with his own orders. Great Excitement Prevails as Light Blues Defeat Dark Blues in Annual Cricket Match —Hazelrigg's Bowling Is Deadly

LONDON, July 9.—Amidst scenes of uproarious undergraduate excitement Cambridge mustered a sensational victory from Oxford in the intervarsity cricket match at Lords' today by 205 runs. Scores were: Cambridge, 288 and 332 for nine wickets, declared, aggregate 620; Oxford, 214 and 101, aggregate 315.

Cambridge declared at the tea interval, Oxford scored 307 to win, and a draw seemed inevitable. When the regular closing time arrived seventeen runs.

Cambridge claimed and secured under the rules governing the match, a extra half hour. This enabled them to dismiss the balance of Oxford's batsmen.

Cambridge made a wobbly start in their second innings this morning. Peebles, the Oxford bowler, being in splendid great form. Lowndes, however, steadied down the Light Blue and finally went to score. Hazelrigg had much to do with Oxford's miserable showing in their second innings. He took four wickets for seventeen runs.

Defeating the Eagles, 9-6, at the Royal Athletic Park last night, Jokers, last year's senior amateur baseball champs, crept a little closer to the idle Elks, second berth occupants.

An early wildness by Bill Brousseau, tribe shutdown ace, and costly errors, spoiled whatever chances the Eagles had of defeating the Jokers.

The tribe collected ten safeties from the offerings of Dave Donaldson. They bunched three of these in the third stanza and checked it in with three runs, and two in the eighth inning for a total of markers. Their other run came in the second stanza.

Jokers rapped Brousseau for seven hits, but these, included by almost as many boners by the tribe, allowed them to check it with a win.

Donaldson and Brousseau, opposing hurlers, breezed eight and seven respectively.

HEALS RIFLE RANGES, July 9.—Victoria marksmen continued to hold the golden fleece from the Elks yesterday at the annual prize meet of the British Columbia Rifle Association, in individual competition, with the shooting of Sergeant-Major Jimmy Read, Garrison Rifle Association, being outstanding. Read won the B.C.R.A. bronze medal in the Dawson match, after a shoot-off with D. A. McIntosh, Vancouver Rifle Association, while he tied with Sergeant Sammy Watson, Canadian Scottish, for first place in the Vancouver match.

Major Fred Richardson, C.M.R., 5th R.C. Coast Brigade, who won the Macdonald Brier rink event in Edmonton, came to the front again today by shooting the honors in the R.C.M.P. match with a score of 47 out of a possible 50. This competition called for ten shots at a range of 200 yards, with a time limit of one minute. The veteran rifle shot put on a fine exhibition and three inners for a remarkable performance.

With the closing of the second day of the big meet, Victoria marksmen have the shade over the rest, having all of the completed individual matches to already remarkable performances, despite the fact that they are greatly outnumbered by Mainland rifle shots.

LOCALS GOING GOOD

Major Richardson won the Macdonald Brier match yesterday, while Sergeant-Major Read was first over the Westminster match. Today Sergeant-Major Read won the Dawson match, while Major Richardson took the honors in the R.C.M.P. match. In the other individual competition, the Vancouver match, Sergeant-Major Read and Sergeant Sammy Watson, both of Victoria, tied in first place.

The 72nd Seaforth Highlanders, of Vancouver, topped the major share of the honors in the team shoots, with the 16th Canadian Scottish running a close second. The Mainlanders took first and second places in the B.C. Electric match, and top position in the Dawson match. Canadian Scottish won first and second places in the Gellatly match.

Excellent weather continued today, with conditions being almost on a par with the opening day. A hot Summer's sun, tempered by a slight breeze, kept the many marksmen in good humor, while the scores being registered bore evidence of the clear of the fifteen competing here.

HEAD IN FRONT

Read won the medal in the Dawson match after a shoot-off with McIntosh when he got on a 34 against 21 by the Mainlander. Both men made possible 50 in the match shoot, which called for three shots at ranges of 200 and 600 yards, but Read's better score at the longer range gave him the first money prize.

The shoot-off followed the Vancouver match and aroused plenty of interest. Read, however, soon secured an inner in their sighting shot, but the next one was a miss. Read put on a bull's-eye, while McIntosh got an inner. The gave the Victoria marksman a lead which he never relinquished.

The score follows:

Read ..... 5 5 5 4 5—24
McIntosh ..... 5 4 4 4 4—21

TWO TIED

S. M. Read and Sergeant Sammy Watson, each with scores of 49, tied for first place in the Vancouver match, which called for ten shots at a range of 600 yards. The shoot-off for the trophy presented by the city of Vancouver, will be held tomorrow following the first stage of the Lieutenant-Governor's match. The cup was won in 1929 by G.M.S. "Badger" Evans, Garrison, who finished fifth today.

First and second places in the B.C. Electric team match went to Mainland marksmen. Seventy-second Seaforth Highlanders topped the list with a score of 462, while the Vancouver Regiment finished with 461. Fifth B.C. Coast Brigade, Victoria, also secured 461, but the Mainlanders put on better score as the longest range. This match was won last year by the Canadian Scottish Regiment, Victoria.

University School "B" team won the Wilkerson match, which open to cadets by putting on a score of 138, six points better than the "A" team from the same institution. The latter team won the shield in 1929.

Canadian Scottish "A" and "B" teams took first and second place, respectively, in the Gellatly match, both scoring 234. Third place went to the R.C.A.F., Jericho Beach, while a score of 230 gave Regimental Garrison won this competition last year.

Seaforths continued their good shooting by capturing the Dawson team match with a score of 248, while the Garrison Rifle Association with 234, were second, and R.C.A.F., Jericho Beach, Vancouver, third, with 232.

Tomorrow the marksmen will shoot in the first stage of the Lieutenant-Governor's match, the Blue Ribbon event of the annual prize meet. This competition has the same significance to the B.C.R.A. as the King's prize at Bisley, England, and the Governor-General's match at Connaught Ranges, Ottawa.

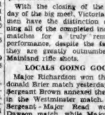
Bobby Jones Keeps Left Arm Straight



BY SOL METZGER

Now and then an outstanding golfer is able to keep a straight left arm in the act of swinging the same time, find the elbows on the same. Read put on a bull's-eye. But Bobby isn't thirty yet and he has been playing golf since early boyhood. His muscles and tendons have not yet become stiff and rheumatic.

Few of us are that way. If we strive for a straight left and find it necessary to bend the arm right and the grip loose, forget it and make the backswing natural. That means the arm must bend at the elbow in order to keep the elbows on the same level. A straight left that is uncomfortable and rigid will check up wrong. You'll find the elbow above the level of the right. All of which means the arms cannot function together, the stroke is wrong. Next—Difference in Wrist Cock.

"Y" ATHLETES SHOW FORM AT TRACK MEET

Eight Open Events Won by Y.M.C.A. at Local Police Sports

Seattle Walks Off With Tug-of-War and Vancouver Wins Relay Race—Phipps Fastest Island Officer

Archie McKinnon and his flying band of athletes, bearing the colors of the Y.M.C.A., walked off with the major share of the silverware in the annual Victoria police sports yesterday afternoon, at the Royal Athletic Park. In the eight open events the lads from the "Y" camp breezed past the judges in fine place to comfortable margins.

Under splendid weather conditions the sports proved an outstanding success, and the hundreds of Victorians who wended their way to the enclosure received thrill after thrill as the various events were closely contested. The children's races as well as the feature attractions kept the crowd on its toes.

Police reproducing the Seattle, Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria departments all shared in the honors. Constable Fred Mills and his husky team of policemen from Seattle proved to be in a class by themselves when strength was concerned, as they captured the tug-of-war honors by defeating the Vancouver police in the finals in two straight pulls. Victoria faded from the picture in the first round when they fell before the great power of the Mainlanders in a straight pull.

With their quartette of runners in splendid condition, Vancouver's band of flying constables had a somewhat easy time winning the special half-mile relay for police. The Mainland's anchor man had at least fifty feet over his nearest rival as he flashed past the judges' stand, gained second place a few strides in front of the local police. Vancouver gained their lead from the first report of the gun, and steadily increased it as each lap was reached. Victoria got away to a shaky start, but made a great finish with Constable William Phipps doing the running on the last lap. Seattle held second place from the start and crossed the finishing line in the same order.

NICHOLLS SHINES

Len Nicholls, blonde-haired youngster from the local Y.M.C.A., had a grin day in the track and field events. Getting away to a beautiful start and running equally as good a race, Nicholls romped over the 440-yard distance in 54 seconds to capture first place honors. In the running broad jump he leaped 19 feet 2 inches to take another first from a classy entry list. "Chuck" Cunningham also had a good day and showed the way in the 880 and 100 yards. Breaking fast, Cunningham took the lead from the start in the century dash, and retained the tape in first position with plenty to spare. Running the distance in 2 minutes and 6 seconds, Cunningham had little difficulty in winning the half-mile race, although at times during the early stages he was pressed by the other competitors.

Constable William Phipps assumed the title of "Victoria's Flying Cop" yesterday, when his treaded home at that field in the special race for Vancouver Island policemen over the 100-yard distance. Doug Bone, last year's winner, had to be content with second place, a few feet behind the fast traveling Phipps. Bob Mugford counted in the tape in third place right on Bone's heels.

WINS POLICE RACE

D. Shirley, of the Vancouver Police Department, ran a pretty race to finish first in the 100-yard open race for policemen. Shirley's great finish was the chief factor in beating out Doug Bone, Victoria Police Department, who checked home in second place a few strides ahead of D. W. Sherarer, Vancouver police force.

An accident in the one mile bicycle race was the only occurrence which marred an otherwise perfect day. Although not as bad as it looked to the spectators, the four riders sustained bruises about the body which were soon attended to by the first aid squad. The smash-up occurred on the second turn of the final lap with the riders going at top speed. Lew Rush was leading the pack, and as he rounded the turn his front wheel skidded, and the other three riders in attempting to elude him were forced up against the pay grandstand. Pete Tyson circled from the stand, and on his way over the embankment knocked over a youngster standing by the side of the track.

Tyson and Jackson remounted their wheels and finished the race, while Rush and Hollinshead were unable to continue as their bikes were badly damaged in the crash. Don Stewart, of the Victoria Cycling Club, was the three-mile bicycle race after a close finish with Robbins, in second place, and Tyson.

DANCING EVENTS

Vancouver and Seattle entrants carried away the majority of the medals and trophies in the various Scottish dances, which took place on a platform in front of the grandstand. The dances were executed by the young competitors with a plenty of skill and each winner received a great ovation from the packed stands. Constable George Varney was in charge and carried out his duties excellently.

During the afternoon Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce and his niece, Miss Margaret Mackenzie, paid a visit to the grounds. Major Ancomb and Reeve James Kirkpatrick, of Esquimalt, were also present.

Touring Ball Team Defeats Nanaimo Nine

NANAIMO, July 9—On the Central sports ground last evening nearly 1,000 fans saw the Schafer Shoe baseball team from Montreal, Que., wash into the local boys into camp by a score of 20 to 4. However, notwithstanding the fact that so few runs were gotten the game was a fiasco, the crowd got their money's worth of the antics of the first baseman of the Schaefer Shoe team, who, by a real good show of clownish acts, kept the crowd in a continuous state of laughter.

Another game will be played Saturday evening when the versatile ball players promises to unleash some new clown acts.

"MARCO HIMSELF" IS HUGE LAUGH

Jack Oakie Is Hilariously Funny in "The Social Lion" at the Capitol Theatre

Jack Oakie, Paramount's sure-bet laugh-maker, will be seen and heard today at the Capitol Theatre in his first starring vehicle, "The Social Lion." The picture is based upon Ben Dekeyus Burr Cohen story, "Marco Himself."

It is the hilariously funny story of a young garage mechanic and would-be populist who gets a peep on a fifty country club's polo team because he is the town's most proficient mallet - wielder having learned pain when he was serving an unlimited in the army.

But his befriending with the "400 of the town gives him high-hat ideas and he tries to crash into the "inner circle" by means of the mire he has gained through his polo playing. The finale is a happy one, for our hero finally realizes that the plain little girl and the plain life are the girl and the life for him.

Jack Oakie, of course, is the pugilist-polite social lion aspirant. Mary Brian is the plain little girl, and Olive Borden is the risky daughter of society who tries to make a sap out of Jack, but fails.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE — Major Owen Marshall, who acted as technical director in the production of "Mamba," Tiffany's gorgeous all-talking and all-technicolor picture showing until Saturday at the Playhouse Theatre, served for twelve years with the British Army in East Africa and knows that country from A to Z. All the sets, native costumes and uniforms were designed and made to the Colleen's expertation.

FIRST SEA YARN MADE IN SOUND

Love Affairs of Rod Firale Being Shown at the Coliseum Theatre

Romance goes to sea with a 1929 pirate in "The Delightful Rogue," the all-talking Radio picture featuring Rod La Rocque, which comes to the Coliseum Theatre today.

"The Delightful Rogue" is the first sea story made in sound. It tells of the adventures and loves of Lasiro, a pirate who steals a millionaire's yacht, The Golden Rule, and sets to plundering a group of tropical isles.

How he meets Nydra, whose dancing is the delight of an island city, how he aids her in a unique test of another's love and how he and his crew of colorful vagabonds settle an affair with the bottle of Tepti form the highlights of Wallace Smith's yarn.

Charlie Chaplin comedies are personal "Shoulder Arms." his epic satire of the Great War made about eight years ago, has been released by Pathe and is now being shown at the Colleen. And, according to reports, it is being shown throughout the entire country to as large and as enthusiastic audiences as greeted it on its first presentation.

Striking Dress Contrast

UNUSUAL contrast in street costumes seen at the races at Ascot. The organdie frock, with its cape of the same material and poke bonnet, would command one of a dress that might have been seen in the early days of horse racing and makes a striking contrast compared with the frock of black lace worn by the wearer's companion.

SAFETY WOOD ACTS AS OWN EXTINGUISHER

Chemically Prepared Door Shows Six Times Resistance of Wood in Test

NEW YORK, July 9.—A safety wood which extakes its own fire extinguisher was exhibited here recently by Professor Allen H. Beyer of the Columbia University testing laboratories.

A three-inch thick door of the wood was back smoke and flames six hours as long as did a metal-covered door. The protective moisture is a secret chemical preparation. Dr. Beyer explained, which is produced right on the skin of the wood. It is not the wood, he said, is made by the touch of the flames combining with chemicals soaked into the wood.

The wet skin retards fire, which, however, eats it off slowly, leaving a charred, black film. As soon as this top skin is eaten through, a new layer forms underneath because the chemicals impregnate the wood completely. Only the topmost layers of molecules, said Professor Beyer are affected at any one moment. They explode at touch of the flames, throwing out tiny sprays.

The test was conducted for Henry Klein, manufacturer, who invented the process. The metal-covered and the wooden doors were set in the sides of a large furnace, the flames licking their interior faces.

The metal-covered door quickly became unbearably hot, passing 100 degrees in about three minutes and passing the boiling point of water in about fifteen minutes. The wooden door's exterior reached 200 degrees after about thirty minutes and 150 degrees at about forty-five minutes. It did not rise much above 200 until near the moment of burning through. In the metal-covered door after ten minutes smoke poured through the joints in heavy clouds and flames appeared. The wooden door held back both smoke and flames for a full hour after it was less than one-eighth of an inch thick.

Professor Beyer said the duration of fire resistance depends partly on the amount of chemical absorbed, and that within one to two hours resistance to flames may be fixed quite accurately in advance by gauging the amount. He said the door used today came from wood processed for about four and a half months, first by air drying, then kiln drying, soaking and finally air drying.

NEWS LIFE IS PICTURE TOPIC

"Young Man of Manhattan" at Dominion Is Interesting Story

One of the most popular novels of the past year provides the material for the main feature at the Dominion Theatre today, Friday and Saturday. The novel is "Young Man of Manhattan," by Katharine Brush.

"Young Man of Manhattan," was first published as a serial in The Saturday Evening Post in the Winter of 1929-1930. It was produced later in book form by Farrar & Rinehart, New York book publishers. The book became a best seller in hundreds of book stores all over the country.

"Young Man of Manhattan" is a realistic story, glamorously set forth, of the lives of two young newspaper folk, Ann and Toby. She is pretty, clever, ambitious and determined. He is good-looking, carefree, a great talker, a right and left handed drinker and capable of writing good "copy" when motivated by the proper stimulus. There are several deeply dramatic sequences and then the roseate finale, one of the happiest endings yet conceived by novelist or film producer.

"Dorothy," said her mother, "you have disobeyed me by racing around and making all sorts of noise. For that you shan't have that piece of candy I was saving for you."

A few minutes later, when father came in, he was surprised to find Dorothy huddled in a corner, quiet as a mouse.

"What's the matter, little one?" he demanded. "Why so quiet?"

"I've been fined for spending," sobbed Dorothy.

Rin-Tin-Tin Helps In Round-Up of Gang of Smugglers

In a blaze of gunfire at a Mexican hacienda near the Mexican boundary, Rin-Tin-Tin enacts the final scenes of his latest Warner Brothers Vitaphone all-talking production, "On the Border," which comes to the Columbia Theatre today.

The action represents the round-up a gang of smugglers, engaged in the United States, and the plot was frustrated through the activities of the keen-scented dog star.

This is the first all-talking picture in which Rinty appears, and the first made since his recent personal appearance tour, which occupied several months and which covered all parts of the United States.

Bronze Anchor of Catigula's Galley Brought to Light

NEMAI, Italy July 8.—The eleven-fook bronze anchor of Caligula's galley has been found on the bottom of Lake Nemi. Several hundred feet away on the banks of the lake lies the galley itself, made visible by lowering the level of the water.

This distance between the two leads to the belief that the anchor once pertained to the galley was lost, and that the anchor belonging to the galley when it sunk still lies somewhere nearby.

Some fragments of the anchor rope still remain, which is almost miraculous considering that the anchor has been under water nearly 2,000 years.

Dredging operations continue to be pushed forward to find objects of the second galley. The galley itself will not be brought to light, but government engineers and archaeologists hope to recover its treasures.

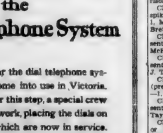
Our Men Are Installing the Dials on the telephones



Getting ready for the New Telephone System

LATE this year the dial telephone system will come into use in Victoria. In preparation for this step, a special crew of installers is at work, placing the dials on the telephones which are now in service. The installation of a dial requires only a few minutes, but as there are about 17,000 instruments to be dealt with, the whole job will cover a period of some weeks.

Instructors will visit our Victoria subscribers later on to explain the operation of the dial telephones. We feel sure you will find the new system simple and easy to use.

LOGGER'S DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Duncan Jury Recommends Warning Signs on New Highway Work at Evelyn Hospital

DUNCAN, July 8.—"Death from misadventure" was the verdict returned here last night at an inquest held on the death of Edgar Evelyn, of Cowichan Lake, who was killed in a motor accident on the Cowichan Lake highway, at about 7 o'clock on Monday night.

According to the evidence, the car, driven by Harry Mills, was travelling at about thirty miles per hour, when at a bad spot on the road, where the road gang had been working, the car turned over, failing no accident impending. Evelyn, who was seated beside the driver, opened the car door in an attempt to escape. As the car turned over the door closed, severing his head from his body.

Mills was wedged in between the steering wheel and the side of the car as it lay on its side. The dead man lay on top of him, and he was extricated from his position by two ferry workers, who heard the crash and hurried to the scene of the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn, of Cowichan Lake, were also passengers in the car, which was coming into Duncan at the time of the accident.

A rider to the verdict recommended that the Public Works Department up warning signs at either side of new repair work on the roads.

The jury consisted of P. Jayton, foreman, A. H. Stevens, R. E. Mc-Bean, H. W. Drake, Peter McGovern and G. D. Weeks.

The Vancouver Exhibition Association had, through Mr. William Wilson, asked the board's oil paintings of scenes of the Forbidden Plateau for the Vancouver show next month. These paintings are to be loaned to the exhibition association. The Vancouver Publicity Bureau also requested photos of the Plateau area which request has been complied with by C. S. Wood.

LEPERS IN CHINA NUMBER MILLION

Doctor Says Will Require Centuries to Make Any Headway Against Disease

SHANGHAI, July 8.—One out of every 400 Chinese is a leper, in other words, there are 1,000,000 lepers in China. This, according to Dr. T. C. Wu, head of the Chinese mission to lepers, is the situation confronting medical missionaries in China today, and at the present rate of progress, it would require centuries before any real headway is made in eradicating the disease. Dr. Wu, who recently returned from an extensive tour of China as well as the leper colonies in the Philippine Islands, stated that almost every district he visited, he came into contact with leprosy and that little was being done to eradicate it.

"China is one of the countries most affected by this terrible scourge," he said, "and has done the least in trying to eradicate it. In my extensive trips through China, especially in South China I have seen thousands of lepers, all living a dog's life. In Fukien Province, out of sixty-four districts, sixteen of them have leper settlements. These are nothing more than a few wretched houses for the poor lepers to live in. Each year a grant from a few cents to a couple of dollars per month for maintenance. In comparison with other countries, our Government has done nothing for them, to say nothing of the eradication of the malady.

"There is a proverb among the people in Fukien that if the habits of a person could be changed, then leprosy would become curable. The habits of a person might not be changed, but leprosy certainly becomes curable. The results of modern treatment are so encouraging that, instead of being taken by force, the lepers now voluntarily want to go to the settlements where treatments can be obtained voluntarily. But in China there are so few treatment stations. For no reason, however, why good results cannot be obtained in China, as in the Philippines and elsewhere, if both our people and our Government can make a combined effort to eradicate this age-old malady."

MODERN OPERA VERY CATHOLIC

New Works In Germany Very Numerous—Mostly Unlike Classic or Antique

BERLIN, July 8.—Going to the opera in Germany has little to do with one's taste for the classic or antique.

True, it is nearly always possible in Berlin to see a Shakespearean play one night and "Rigoletto" the next; but the Berliner never says "Shall we go to the opera or see something modern?" That would be as silly as saying "Shall we fly, or use a modern vehicle?"

Opera here wears a beard only part of the time. It can be—and very frequently is, extremely modern. Sometimes, in fact the crop of brand-new operas is so thick that the plodding Canadian tourist begins to wonder if everyone isn't writing a new opera in Germany. Premieres of the newest ones are as numerous as film first-nights in Hollywood; and as for innovations, one accustomed to the conservatism of modern motion pictures should carry smelling salts to the modern opera.

Not all the new operas are good. But what is fascinating for the music-lover long accustomed to hearing only tried and tested operas is the fact that Germany today is in a ferment of operatic adventure.

And not all the innovators are German. Some are foreigners, glad to take advantage of the welcome which state and civic operas in this country are but afraid to extend to the musically and dramatically venturesome. Toch, for instance, George Antheil's operatic version of a hectic American presidential campaign, "Transatlantic," had its premier in the Civic Opera House at Frankfort-on-Main.

Other new works which in recent months have competed with Wagner and Puccini and Verdi in German opera houses include: "Maschopotpy" by Kurt Weill and Bert Brecht, which sings about a city where everyone does as he pleases; "Machinist Hopkins," Max Brand's factory opera; Egon Wellesz' "Alkestis" and "The Sacrifice of the Captive;" Arnold Schoenberg's "Expectation" and "The Lucky Hand"; Weinberger's "Schwanda, the Bagpiper," and Berlau' "The Trojans."

"My husband and I were going out for dinner and I was supervising the children's meal before leaving. Betty Grace, aged four, scrambled into my customary place at the table and outlined the conservation for the benefit of modern motion pictures should carry smelling salts to the modern opera.

"Imagine my astonishment and dismay at her next words, 'Now, let's argue!'"—O.L.P., in New Outlook.

During the month preceding the close of the Spring term Alice gave several evenings in Sam's apartment. She revived in her boldness, the adventure delighted her, at the same time she was watchful, suspicious of him. When he treated her with the same unfailing courtesy that he had displayed on their automobile jaunts and took no advantage whatever of the situation she had created, her distrust disappeared, she abandoned herself to a triumphant enjoyment of her exploit and assumed a sort of proprietorship over him and Mo, but what roused she sacrifice? What more had she to give?

"Fireflies!" It takes a lot of fireflies to light the road to Paris . . . Poor Chin Ting! How she had longed to escape from her prison. "You can see the Pearl of Lanterns if you wish," Sam told her gravely.

"How?"

"By stopping over in New York for a week and allowing me to show you about."

"New York is too expensive for a Bartonville art student."

"I would consider it a privilege to entertain you as my guest."

Alice eyed the speaker in startled interrogation

"You could go to some hotel—the very nicest—and nobody need know that you're my guest. I'll hold myself at your service, take you to the shows and the shops—"

"It would be lovely!"

"——and perhaps you would enjoy meeting my father. I want him to know you. He's a learned man, a philosopher, a person of importance. Very likely he could put you in the way of securing a position for the Summer."

"Oh, Sam! Would you——? I've always wanted to see the New York shops. A position! You are a magician: you're a prince out of a fairy boat. No. You're just a plain darling. Why, it may mean the chance I've been looking for . . . "

Sam, dear." The speaker clasped her hands and strained at them, her voice grew husky. "I'll never, never be a misfit. Don't let me go back to Bartonville and——rust out on a sidetrack. Please!"

That car of Sam Lee's excited quite as much admiration on Fifth Avenue as it had excited on the college campus; wherever it stopped people gathered to look at it. Alice Hart felt something stir inside of her when she and Sam came out of a department store and stepped into it. She did not bear to look rich and haughty and meanwhile she envied her companion's complete oblivion to the stares he evoked. It was an experience to be stared at, to be seen in company with a young man as perfectly groomed and as important as Sam Lee. Nobody seemed to take him for a——for a foreigner.

Sam, she learned, had a subtle unobtrusive way of commanding attention in the stores themselves. He was recognised as a somebody and his name was magic.

They had spent the morning sightseeing, in reality window shopping, for that was Alice's wish. Sam had shown her through art stores, silversmiths, antique shops at first. For his taste ran to exquisite things like bronzes, jewels, ivories and such, but she did not begin to enjoy herself thoroughly until they entered the stores given over to fashionable women's things. Thereafter she was in raptures.

They lunched together: for ten they visited a place she had always longed to see and they lingered there. Soft music. Rich rugs and hangings. Crystal and silver and bronze and gilt. Sam Lee didn't look like a Chinaman. He looked more like a Spaniard or an Italian. Or a Rumanian, a Greek, a Russian ——anything one foreigner was about like another to Alice. Now wonderful it—He was the dearest creature really, and the nicest thing about him was his formality. He had never even tried to kiss her.

Now nice it was to be in a place like this, how wonderful to afford to come here often. If she were an artist she could afford it. This was living. Yes, and Sam had sense of the most popular show in town for that evening.

When she returned to her room she received the culminating surprise of that gala day. On her bed were a number of packages from the shops she had visited and when, with trembling fingers, she opened them she found they contained all, or practically all, of the lovely things that she had most enthusiastically admired on their sightseeing tour. Here was a dinner dress, there an evening wrap, yonder a sport costume, a beaded bag a hat——! Incredible. Alice gloated over them like a miser. Her heart beats choked her. This was like Sam he did everything regally. What extravagance!

For once Alice was eager to be seen in public, therefore she and Sam went to a night club after the theatre. It was a manical place, the entertainment was wild, the dancing was feverish; she had never experienced anything like this and it intoxicated her. She was drunk, too, on her escort's praises over and over again he murmured into her ear that she was the most ravishing, the loveliest creature in the place and she believed him. They danced until they were tired.

Sam did not kiss her on their way back to the hotel, although she fully expected him to do so.

Another day of bliss, another night of revelry followed: a third and then a fourth. The young people spent most of their waking hours together when apart they were constantly in each other's thoughts. Alice had on evening to which she had looked forward with dread: Sam took her to see his father.

Thus far she had beheld only the opulent heart of this modern Bagdad, she had seen nothing of the city itself, but Sam piloted her through streets that were dark and comparatively deserted, on between endless, towering walls pierced by blind windows. Elevated trains roared through these empty, echoing streets with the clangor of huge metallic dragons: the denizens were scantily dressed, furtively they passed from shadow to shadow. Here was poverty, dirt, garbage, the sights and sounds and smells of a life all too familiar to Alice Hart.

She shuddered, drew closer the silken wrap which Sam had given her and shrank against his side.

Here was everything she loathed, back yonder the sky was ashine; here the air was thick, there it was heavy with intoxicating scents. She could never return to this. Who cared what Sam Lee was? He offered escape, he held her freedom in his hands and——he trembled like a leaf at her touch . . . She must act a part, she must be nice to his father, for this was the deciding night of her life.

They came into a wholly different and distinctive quarter, the sound and the smell of which proclaimed it to be Italian. The small, naked, iron-fenced park which Sam skirted was over-run with people.

"This is Mulberry Bend Park," Sam said. "It's where I played when I was a child."

"How strange to think of you coming from a place like this," Alice murmured in a stifled voice.

He nodded towards the south. "Down there a little ways is where the Governor of the state was born."

A block or two between bleak, narrow walls—then ran high and Sam Lee swung his car into a street more brightly illuminated than the others and with startling suddenness the environment changed once more. New odors, strange and pungent and spicy, came to the girl's nostrils, new pictures greeted her eyes. The signs and the storefronts carried hieroglyphics, Oriental men crowded the sidewalks: they were yellow, flat-nosed, high cheek-boned, undersized, and they wore full-fitting, homogenous American clothes. Alice heard outlandish cries and words without meaning. The street ran bank full of pedestrians, but the stream divided to let Sam's car pass through.

He was saying something about Chinatown——It was nothing like it was painted——there was no local color——It was a gigantic fake, but Alice heard him indistinctly. These Chinamen recognized Sam Lee's car and they knew Sam Lee: they were gaping at her. And why not? A white girl with one of their own people! A white girl in an evening wrap. Of a sudden she felt frightened, half naked. She had never anticipated anything like this.

Sam stopped his car in front of a building which rose several stories above its neighbors and helped his passenger out. They were in a fine store, a bazaar, now dimly lighted, alongside of it was a tiled entrance and into this he led her. The place was clean and shiny w p brass and white marble, but there were unrecognizable odors in the air. Opium probably! Alice grew faint, her knees wavered. Where was Sam taking her? What would be the end of this hideous experience? A panic seized her.

She let it all, now, and sudden she stood the significance of his gifts, his attentions. How cunningly he had arranged everything. How patiently he had biided his time. An ally. Why, Oriental manicurer. She was tempted to bolt and run, but it was too late, the elevator gate had closed, she was being rushed upward, out of and away from the world. She wanted to scream, but feared to offend her companion. She wondered if she would ever be heard of again.

ANSWER TO THURSDAY'S PUZZLE

A Story with a Moral

An energetic Canadian dreamed a dream some thirty years ago. He was in a position to construct a small factory, manned by local workers as yet untrained. In his fancy he saw a great mill, employing nearly 3,000 people, trained and competent.

He might have built his factory, planning it on a small scale. He might, as business expanded, have called in architects to plan extensions. He might, in other words, have embodied his success in a patch-work plant, the creation of many minds and various occasions.

Instead, he planned the great mill. It was designed in units, to be built as circumstances dictated, one by one. Plans were sent to the makers of equipment. They were told to ship as required in the coming years, on the specifications embodied in these plans.

The first unit was small. Its working force was untrained. Its products were of low-grade—sometimes of poor quality. But they found a market.

Units have been added, and the great mill is now built. It employs nearly 3,000 people. Its products are of a quality sometimes equalled elsewhere, but not excelled. Its efficiency rests on a simple organization, made possible by the distant vision of the founder.

For the citizens of this country the story has a moral. Planning for the future must be based on knowledge of the long term rate of progress. For Canada will not stand still.

WILL HARNESS GULF STREAM WARMTH TO USE IN INDUSTRIES

MATANZAS, Cuba, July 2.—The visionary plan of a French scientist of harnessing the Gulf Stream and converting its warmth into energy sufficient to turn the wheels of industry is declared nearing the stage of a practical demonstration. After years of costly experimenta, Professor Georges Claude says he has perfected at his laboratory along the gulf shore here.

His theory is that the Gulf Stream waters, being subjected to vacuum, will rise to the boiling point and will produce sufficient to turn great turbines for generating electrical power. The tube will rest in a channel on the bottom of the sea. A year ago he submerged a tube of smaller proportions and lesser strength, but it was rendered unserviceable by strong undercurrents. Elaborate preparations for sinking the new tube have been made, including the building of a railway track, a mile and a quarter long, over the water. The laboratory where Professor Claude has been conducting his experiments covers nearly an acre. At the rear of the main building he has constructed enormous caves where the mechanical work is being done. He declared the project when completed will comprise the largest power plant in existence. Recently he submitted a paper on his experiments to the Academy of Science at Paris and was assured his plan was practical. A survey of the project was made recently by two engineers of the Cuban Department of Public Works, who expressed themselves elated over its possibilities.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 9.—Glorious weather continues to favor the great meeting of the National Rifle Association, the best being completed by dimdis and a pleasant breeze. Marksmen, here from all parts of the Empire, hope that the favorable conditions will rule when heavy shooting sentences in the great events of the meeting ate this week and continuing through next week.

Meanwhile, a host of smaller competitions are affording the marksmen plenty of practice in readiness for the important shoots. Results today were:

Chrysiemore Memorial Cup, rapid fire at 300 yards—Won by team from H.M.S. Pembroke.

Canada Challenge Shield, for teams of four shooting in the rifle competition for the Queen Mary shoot—Won by H.M.S. Pembroke.

Treasury Intergovernmental Challenge Cup, also connected with the Queen Mary shoot—Won by the Royal Wiltshire Regiment.

Brinsmead Challenge Shield, in connection with Imperial Tobacco Company's—Won by the Australian team.

Lewis gun match won by the Rifle Brigade team.

Territorial championship, won by Sergeant-Major Williams, of the West Kent Regiment.

The above events were all for members of His Majesty's forces, shooting as units, except the territorial championship.

Charlie Marsh Wins Sloan Cup Bowling

NANAIMO, July 9.—In the final of the Sloan Cup, emblematic of the city championship, played on Monday night on the local lawn bowling green, Charlie Marsh and his rink fought game from W. Storrie, 21-17.

A artist declares that modern plays are not true to life. We ourselves recently saw one in which a month is supposed to elapse between the first two acts, and yet the same patrolmaid appears in each.

The New Champion as Seen by Ripley

BELIEVE it or not, 'way back yonder Robert L. Ripley, the famous sports writer, predicted Max Schmeling as the next world's heavyweight champion. This is how Maxie looked to Ripley on the night of May's right is the only thing he's got, but right it is, might," says Ripley. "Max can (and did) take everything Sharkey's got and then win with his right." This is how that right looks to Ripley, who drew it "from the life."

MAJOR LEAGUES ROUGH ON MINORS

Will Break Off All Player Relations Unless Untenable Draft Is Accepted

CHICAGO, July 9.—All player relations with the five Pacific draft minor leagues will be broken off by the American and National Leagues, December 1, 1930, unless the minors accept the unique baseball draft. This drastic resolution was passed today at a joint meeting of the major circuits.

The resolution, intended to clear up what American and National club owners consider an unfair situation for both players and the majors, was aimed at the Pacific Coast League, the American Association and the International League, all class "AA" circuits and the Three-Eye and the Western leagues of lower ranking.

As a result of the pressure, the major leagues will not purchase players from the minor leagues, nor will they release any players to them, unless the latter agree to the universal right of selection on a schedule of higher draft prices.

Though not recently arrived in France, he already understands the conditions—to speak French, to get acquainted with all that concerns the food and to create a favorable impression on the blonde customer girl.

"What'll you have?" he asked.

"Bock ou bock," she replied.

"Bock ou sout-ter two," he ordered.

The length of the odd-timers made him realize that something was wrong.

"Nothing at all," they told him. "You can't persuade me to believe that," he retorted. "It must mean something or she wouldn't have asked for it."

Stocks Advance in Common With Grain in Yesterday's Mart Trading at New York

NEW YORK, July 9.—Stocks advanced today in common with grain, but the upward move was made in trading which, in dullness, had been equaled only once this year. Sales totaled 1,350,000 shares against Wednesday's two-year low record of 1,231,000.

Nevertheless, the absence of selling was favorably construed and appeared to indicate at least a temporary oversold condition. It was apparent most of the buying was done by professionals who had found the market resistant to further selling and who desired to protect profits earned on the short side.

Rail and oil stocks did particularly well. The Interstate Commerce Commission rises rate decision, and again in car loadings attracted a demand for the prominent carrier shares, several of which rallied 3 to 5 points. Chesapeake & Ohio gained 7.

The weekly petroleum figures revealed a decrease in production and in gasoline stocks. Standard Oil of New Jersey and Houston Oil moved on more than 3 points.

In general, the movement of stocks was higher throughout the day, although late profit taking reduced the advances a point or more in leading issues. Shares gaining 2 to 3 points net included American Can, American Tobacco "B," Consolidated Gas, Baltimore & Ohio, Erie, Missouri Pacific, Procter & Gamble, Westinghouse Electric and Union Pacific. Rock Island was up 1. U.S. Steel rose 3-4 net.

Foreign exchanges were slightly irregular. The French franc, which is approaching the gold export point was firm.

The strength of the rails stood out in the upward movement of boards of trade. Increased activity among the dollar issues and convertibles as carrier lines sat encouraged by the promised for the improvement in the volume of sales, which was 91,400,000 shares (two yesterday), amounting to $9,680,000.

International Great Northern Adjustment 6's climbed 9 points.

Cleveland Union Terminal 5-1-2's touched a new high and the 5-1-2's closed at a new high. New 1930 tops also were established by Southern Pacific 4's, Pennsylvania Guarantee 4-1-2's, and Baltimore & Ohio (Toledo and Cincinnati division) 4's.

Tape Topics

The continued strength throughout the New York market, which had a more confident outlook yesterday, probably was the result of improved commodity markets and distinct lack of bullish news. Stocks rose steadily but cautiously, but with a lower turnover than the day before, only 1,235,400 shares changing hands during the session. All the averages were up, industrials being 2.90, rails 1.86 and utilities 1.07. Call money remained at 2 1-2 per cent all day.

Among the increases recorded may be mentioned Allied Chemicals, which went from 244 to a high of 252, closing at 249 3-4. In the morning one of the early issues to receive bullish influence was Nash, which announced a cut in the dividend from 60 to 50. The stock closed 1 1-8 lower. The announcement had been generally anticipated. With the meeting of Children Motor due today, and no reason for a cut in the dividend, the stock strengthened on considerably, gaining one point from 82 1-4.

Another encouraging item of news is mentioned in the report of the current operations of the Otis Steel Company that six of the eight open hearth furnaces are operating at full capacity that no overtime is scheduled to be lighted this week. The pig output is being increased by the addition of another mill, and the company's inventory of steel ingots and semi-finished steel is at a low point.

Further cheerful news to hand yesterday from New York was that the revenue freight loadings for the United States in the week ended June 28, totaled 936,845 cars, being an increase of 19,789 cars over the preceding week, although a reduction of 158,731 cars in the corresponding week of 1929.

Today's unfilled tonnage figures of the Steel Corporation are being looked forward to with considerable trading interest, possibly at the figures going from 30,000 to 100,000 tons. It is said that, taking yesterday as a criterion, short interests on the market are in no hurry to cover contracts. But the selling yesterday, which is stated to have been largely of a professional character seemed to be losing its force, and in the opinion of one of the New York experts a better than fair chance exists for great improvement in prices, even if only for the moment the market continues to move within a relative narrow range.

At Toronto International Nickel advanced from 22.50 to 23½. Trek Hughes from 46 to 50 bid, Sherritt Gordon from 11.50 to 11.85, and Noranda from 81.50 to 81.85, and Orville from 15c to 16c. Noranda sold around 82.50. Sudbury Basin declined from 81.50 to 81.05, and Bunker Hill and Sullivan 11.000 shares from 4c to 3 5-4c. Tek Hughes A preference was the big trading interest, declining from a first sale at $2.15 to a last at $1.70, with the closing prices, $1.87 to $1.70. During the mid of only about 6,000 shares Noranda strengthened and traveled from 81c to a last transaction at $1.15, but Acme sold off from 42c to 37c.

In a continued quiet local oils market Calmont remained steady around $1.04. Home was off $1.80 with $7.85 to $7.95 as the closing figures, and A. P. C. sold at 74c and 76c. Commonwealth's price was 20c, Dalhousie 60c, McLeod $1.05, Napoil 3c and Maylard 13c. Hardly any stocks changed hands in the local mines and the sales which did take place were meagre. Big Missouri rose from 56c to 58c, Premier sold at 97c and 98c, and Reeves McDonald from 29c to 30c.

Market Quite Satisfactory Says Whitney

(Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Whitney, of Wall Street, says: 'To the extent that today's session picked up the rally which was interrupted by the previous close, and carried stocks to a point sufficiently far from the lows of Tuesday to remove them from danger, I believe we have seen a thoroughly satisfactory market performance. These low points of Tuesday, as it was pointed out, were there constituted what were admittedly critical places for stocks to be in, as the approach to the lows of two weeks ago had become a matter of fear to the investing points for comfort.

'With such an approach any market should, of course, lose little time in meeting sufficient support to take it out of the dangerous territory. That is precisely what happened, and the rally since that time is the reflection of it. At the moment, however, an of the opinion that we cannot expect any worth-while extension of this rally, and in fact, must look for another attempt to be made on the low points before this type of a market movement, which has characterized the last two weeks' market, is definitely given up. That will constitute the third, and I believe the last one, with it coming the definite establishment of both a market bottom, and shortly thereafter, the realization on the part of those who have been waiting for lower prices that they might as well change their plans and get to work on the upside. This simply means that you can continue to buy stocks. If any important movement in the balance of the week's market, but can begin to look for it very soon;

Hon. R. J. Manion Flays Liberal Leader for Not Facing Issues

Dickie had proved time and again that he was thoroughly familiar with his riding, and with the needs of the West, and commanded not only the respect but the closest attention of the House when he rose to speak in Parliament.

Both Conservative members would be returned on July 28 to support Hon. R. B. Bennett when their leader would be returned at the head of the new government, urged Dr. Manion, amid prolonged applause.

This election probably means the turning point in the affairs of Canada," continued the speaker. "As electors you have the opportunity of saying whether you believe in the policy of Canada first, Empire next and other countries afterwards, as enunciated by our leader, Mr. Bennett; or in the policy of every other country first, and Canada nowhere, the policy manifest by our friend, the Rt. Hon. W. Lyon Mackenzie King."

WHEAT AND THE CHAFF

It hurt no one to admit that the Liberals had done some good things, continued Dr. Manion. There were bound to be a few grains of wheat in a bunch of chaff, but the chaff predominated, so it also appeared to do in the public utterances of the leader of the Liberal Government.

The facts were that at the end of nine years the Liberals and the Prime Minister could point to little that would serve in their appeal for re-election.

"If you take the country as a whole you will nearly see what I mean," continued the speaker. "The price of stocks are at the lowest point in a general level that they have been for many a long year. Manufacturing plants are working to reduced orders, and are only distributing about half a normal volume of business for this time of the year across Canada, from end to end, farming is at it slowest ebb within the memory of this present man."

GENERAL DEPRESSION

"I have spoken in thirty-two constituencies on this tour, and I have taken particular notice of farming conditions, especially in Ontario and I can assure you that if the farmers had to sell their lands today they would not get more than the price of their buildings on them. I do not know how it is in British Columbia, but I would be very much surprised if it were different," continued Dr. Manion.

"So far as unemployment is concerned, we have a condition in Canada such as we have not had within my memory, and I am an older man than I look," he went on to say. "No, sah," said Sambo, "she licked me this time."

"I have never before seen such deplorable conditions in regard to employment, and this, too, in the middle of the Summer.

"The papers reported a train wreck, the other day in Northern Ontario, in which, I think it was, eight men were killed. The report said they were homeless men, but I venture to say that they were young Canadian citizens riding the rods in a desperate effort to find employment in a new section of the country, after having failed to find it in their home towns. One conductor told me that they had discovered twenty-five men riding the rods on one freight train, and all of them were men trying to get work."

FRUITS OF "PROSPERITY"

Continuing, he recalled scenes reported at Winnipeg, in which jobless men had marched on the City Hall, and had been beaten off by the police. Those were some of the fruits of "prosperity" which Premier Mackenzie King held up as a model of Liberal rule, thundered Dr. Manion, in ringing applause.

LIBERALS BLAMED

"These statements made by the Prime Minister and his subsidiary speakers only show how little they are in touch with actual conditions. They still talk of 'prosperity' belittling unemployment. I say that Mr. King is tired and needs a rest, and that Canada is tired and needs a rest from Mr. King." (Applause.)

Dr. Manion stated he was willing to admit that the King policies were not the whole cause of the situation, but he declared emphatically that they were very important contributing causes. One reason for the depression, he said, was the Liberal policy that permits importations amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars when much of the imported goods could be produced in Canada. As examples, he mentioned the 42,000,000 pounds of butter imported from New Zealand, the $100,000,000 worth of agricultural machinery, for the most part imported from the United States; the quantities of woollen, cotton and textiles that are imported annually.

"In Canada we had 2,000,000 sheep last year—the same number that we had thirty-three years after Confederation," he pointed out "New Zealand had 30,000,000, and a little country like the Irish Free State had as many as we had. We should be raising the sheep on our own farms instead of importing carcasses and sheep products. Here in Ontario, I understand, there was a textile mill that is operating on half-time."

Dr. Manion recalled that in an after speech in the House of Commons, Dr. Tolmie had declared there was room in the Dominion for 30,000,000 sheep.

EXPORTS DROPPED

Referring to the action taken by the United States to keep out Canadian agricultural products, the speaker declared that in eight months of 1930, when the King Government went in power, exports of Canadian agricultural products were valued at $148,000,000, and in the like corresponding months of 1929 the figure had dropped to $37,000,000. He flayed Premier King for failure to take steps to assert the rights of the best customer of the United States, declaring that had he done so, President Hoover would not have signed the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill recently.

By failure to combat the actions of the United States in this connection, Dr. Manion declared the Liberal "un-Canadian policy" had resulted in heavy loss of work and wages to tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of Canadian people. The policy, he said, had driven thousands to the United States and other foreign countries to the tune of 134,000 persons a year. He asserted that 1,350,000 people had left the Dominion in the nine years of King government.

Referring to the New Zealand trade, he said that as late as Mr. King promised he would "pause before he would do business with the Antipodes, yet would cancel the treaty if it was found to be injurious to Canadian industry."

"We should have seen that both sides received a fair deal," Dr. Manion declared. "If he had done so he would not have had to cancel a treaty at the last moment before an election."

COSTS INCREASED

Touching on promises made by Mr. King, the speaker said the Liberal leader had undertaken to reduce the cost of living, yet in 1922 the cost for a family of five was computed at $30.80 a week, and seven years later, in the King administration, the cost was $21.61 a week.

He promised Senate reform, but all he did was add a few more Liberals to the Senate, and when he added a woman he declared he had started tokenism. It is as though he laughed as he made the statement and the entire house rocked with laughter."

Dr. Manion was scathing in his references to the "five-cent piece" statement of the Prime Minister, branding it as disgraceful and declaring that Mr. King had made it "in cold blood," and later had attempted to convince the people he had been misinterpreted. He pointed out that in effect, Mr. King had declared he would not give "one five-cent piece" to the Governments of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Saskatchewan or British Columbia for unemployment, simply because those bodies were unfortunately opposed to the Liberal policies.

CONSERVATIVE POLICIES

Regarding Conservative policies, Dr. Manion said Mr. Bennett, "when elected on July 28," would call a special session of Parliament, would start as soon as possible the construction of a transcanada highway; would commence active work on construction of an outlet for the Peace River block, and would undertake numerous other public works to relieve unemployment.

"What is wanted is opportunity to work," declared the speaker. "The people of this country must have the opportunity to keep body and soul together. Mr. King says it is not a political question and would lead the audience to believe that his platitudes, generalities and silliness are the political issues of the day.

"When the war broke out munition and other plants were quickly started to provide the necessities of a time of stress. Only this is also a time of stress, and the problem must be handled with the same direct and speedy methods." (Applause).

EMPIRE POLICY

Answering charges that the Conservatives would not reveal their attitude on the budget, the speaker declared that the Conservative party believed in support of the British Empire as much as possible, but would not give preferences that would destroy the industries of Canada. He stated that he would deal with the budget completely in his speech at Vancouver. In the meantime he wished to make it clear that Conservatives wanted Canada to be as British as any part of the Empire, believing that a successful farmer in New Zealand was as important to the Empire as a successful manufacturer in Birmingham.

"But we will not grant preferences without reciprocal agreements," Dr. Manion declared. "When Mr. Bennett talks he will talk business. He will say, 'You are buying wheat from the Argentine and from other foreign countries; we fear Russia will become a real exporter of wheat, and we want assurance of the sale of our wheat.' In this way he will discuss Imperial preference on reciprocal lines."

"The same view was held by some of the most powerful groups of British bankers, he said, and they were suggesting that England "try to rid of free trade ideas." He drew a comparison between Russia and France, stating that the Continental nation with its high protection had practically no unemployment and at the same time had a lower cost of living, while Great Britain, with free trade, had more than 1,350,000 unemployed.

"It is not the Conservative policy to build a high tariff wall but to deal on even terms; to produce in the Dominion all that we can, to produced economically; to utilize raw materials at home and to supply home markets instead of having the United States fatten on them."

PROTECT CONSUMER

"Our policy is to extend markets at home and abroad, and to protect. We will safeguard the consumer against exploitation. The problem hinges not on the price, but on the ability to pay. One cannot buy butter when he cannot get bread. One cannot buy the best radio in the world, even if it is offered for a dollar if he hasn't the dollar. It is not cheaper goods that is wanted but wages for the people that they might buy goods."

Charging Mr. King with "ham-hoosling" the people with his talk of British preference, Dr. Manion declared that in 1928 and 1929 the average ad valorem rate on importations from the United States was 14.1 per cent, and the average ad valorem rate on importations from the same period was 20.8 per cent. This condition existed, he said, in spite of declarations by Mr. King before the last time that Britain was receiving a tariff preference.

When Conservatives were in power between 1911 and 1921, Dr. Manion said, the average rate on British goods was never as high as during the Liberal regime in 1928 and 1929. It varied from 13.3 per cent to 20.5 per cent, with the peak in 1928.

BROKE FAITH

Referring to the credit that the Liberal administration seeks for assistance to returned soldiers in recent legislation, Dr. Manion declared that the committee which prepared the recommendations that were adopted was nonpartisan, being composed of members of all parties. The report had been unanimous, and the bill was passed without opposition. Credit, he said, was due to the whole Parliament and not to the Liberal party. There had been an agreement that there would be no political kudos over the legislation, and the speaker charged Mr. King with breach of that agreement. Otherwise, he said, the subject would not have been mentioned.

Dr. Manion branded as two-sided the campaign literature of the Liberal party. In the East, he said, speakers were declaring friendship to the West their speakers were expressing hostility.

"As far as the budget is concerned, it was put out simply to catch votes. There was no other reason on God's green earth," he declared.

In closing, the speaker predicted the Liberal Government would be defeated and that Hon. R. B. Bennett would be the next Prime Minister. The Conservatives, he said, offered a strong and virile policy in connection with unemployment, whereas Mr. King was merely planning to seventeen more seats in Ontario, a dozen of them in twelve in Manitoba, seven in Saskatchewan, four to one in Alberta, two in British Columbia, and a few gains in Quebec. Nova Scotia and Columbia would again be Conservative.

CANDIDATE WELCOMED

Hon. Dr. Manion, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative standard bearer for Victoria in the last House, was given a great ovation. The electors, he said, had listened to the former Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in a two-hour address in Victoria recently. He would ask them what declaration of policy had been made in the course of that two-hour address?

Confidently he would suggest that Mr. King had evaded any statement of fact and any answers whatever on the budget, which had been hurried into the House as fast as the speaker believed Mr. King would be hurried out of it at the general election.

At a time when there were 200,000 unemployed in Canada, the Prime Minister had evaded any contact with the question and had refused to state what course he would take to remedy the situation, Dr. Manion continued. Mr. Plunkett, Coutrant that course, had condemned publicly, with the clear, frank statement of Hon. H. H. Stevens, that speech urged, Mr. Bennett had told what he would do. He had admitted the facts as they were, and had declared how he proposed to remedy the condition of unemployment throughout the Dominion by carrying out necessary beneficial works.

THE LARGER BLACK

Mr. King had made great play on the use of the phrase "Blunt a Black," continued the speaker, but had forgotten to tell the electors that he had promised the United States to blunt its way into Canada to the tune of $400,000,000 a year. As against this, Canada had a trade with the United States of $450,000,000, or only one-half. This adverse trade balance had been created by Mr. King, as many other facts had been passed up, in the course of a two-hour talk in favor of "peaceful platitudes and trite sayings which could carry none of the day," concluded Mr. Plunkett.

SPEAKS FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Reese Burns, of the Victoria Women's Conservative Club, made a brief appeal for support of the Conservative party candidates. The Conservative women of Canada objected to the policies of present Government, Mrs. Burns declared because it belittled the intelligence of the electors. They sought to make the self-respect of Canadians and lastly because the record of the Government had been that of a Government afraid to tackle the issues of the day, said Mrs. Burns.

It was the duty of Canadians everywhere to turn out a Government which had proved itself afraid of its mission, and was afraid to tackle the issues, she declared, to bear on any remedial measures necessary, she continued. Mrs. Burns predicting a substantial victory for the Conservatives in the July 28 election.

CHAIRMAN CONFIDENT

Opening in happy vein, Reginald Hayward, the P.P., the chairman, predicted a Conservative victory at the polls on July 28. As for R. H. Plunkett, he said, the former Conservative member for Victoria had already a keen record for taking issues by the hair and making him by him had been that of the chairman of the Liberal forces in the province, Dr. MacLean.

WOULD ADD SCALPS

On the platform Mr. Plunkett had also showed his prowess at scalping, by the decapitation of the Liberal party. Mr. Hayward predicted that the other scalps would soon hang on the belt of the Conservative party when July 28 had passed.

The former Victoria member in the Federal House had put in his time famously at Ottawa, and had found his feet, proving a worthy successor to Hon. Dr. Tolmie, who, as everyone knows, is logical that Mr. Plunkett should be returned to support a ministry, which he would predict would be headed by Hon. R. B. Bennett, concluded the chairman.

HAMLET AT MODERN SPEED

A busy and bustling Hamlet, a Hamlet as he might have been in these days of activity and speed, was recently portrayed in London. John Gielgud as the Dane, spoke his lines so fast that, in the dramatic moments his deep voice became a rushing sound, and the actions were equally rapid. Miss Adele Dixon, as Ophelia, hurried to keep pace with him. The stage settings consisted of curtains covered with bright designs, and the costumes were modern and cheerful.

RAILPLANE WILL BE INAUGURATED

MILNCAVIE, Scotland, July 9.—The world's first experimental railplane system, backed by the London & Northeastern Railway, will be inaugurated here this month.

A torpedo-shaped coach driven by two airplane propellers, operating fore and aft, and drawing electrical power from the overhead rail to which it is suspended, will flash over an experimental stretch of track, according to its designer, George Bennie, a Scottish engineer.

The railplane is England's answer to the demand of the airplane age for speedier transportation. The new system will be inspected by delegates to the Transport Conference, which will meet in Glasgow in July. If it wins their approval, plans for a railplane system between Blackpool and Southport, a distance of twenty-five miles, will be carried out.

A railplane system can be built at one-third the cost of a double track railroad system, say the London & Northeastern experts.

Each railplane coach will be self propelled and will run alone. The overhead rail will direct the engine and guide rails will keep it from swinging. The car is stopped by reversing the propellers, which function as brakes.

The aerial railway can be erected over roads, canals, or, as in the present instance, over railroads, without interfering with the ground traffic. Thus, in the case of railroads, a ground line could be used for freight, while the air line could be used for speedy passenger service and the carrying of mails.

INTERLACHEN CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 9.—The mental and physical traits that make baffling game of golf are stupendous. At times there is no reason for the game. It may be largely on this account that four million or more people take part in this country are set tangled up in it.

For example there is a young man by the name of Bobby Jones.

What's all this chatter about trouble with your brie eagle, Bobby? Didn't you say you'd settled it," he said, "but it's true I never had much bother before with such a driver, brassie, spoon or long iron as I have had with the steel shaft pitches. But then lately I don't seem to know where my long game is going, but I feel I can hit the pin with a mashie or a mashie niblick. It's all just the opposite of what it used to be."

The first hole is 480 yards, and it rained last night. Yet Jones was by the pin with a drive and a light iron, best more than a No. 4. He hit the same type of shot on the next second, and, as it was getting hotter there seemed to be no great use in walking four or five miles up hill and down in the possible chance of seeing Bobby Jones make a terrible mistake by hitting one seven feet off the middle of the course.

For all that, Bobby isn't any too happy just now over his King drive, but I have a hunch it will get him around the course. He was never looking better, and he admitted that he was never feeling better. I think he is more businesslike about the championship than any he has played in. He wants to win, naturally, but he isn't wrought up about it. He did the big job around and that was where he became keyed up. He is set to win, but if he doesn't he won't shoot himself or give up or hurl members clubs.

HOW THEY ARE GOING

The public at large figures Bobby Jones almost a sure thing, but there is nothing sure in golf, and the pros are all keyed up to stop this conquering march. Leo Diegel is hitting the ball in spectacular fashion, and Leo is keen and ready to go.

Gene Sarazen just told me that he was hitting the ball better than he had ever hit it before, and you could see that he has great hopes.

I talked to Horton Smith, and, as usual, this cool-headed young entry from Missouri was completely unworried and at his baffling best. He trimmed Bobby at Savannah, and Bobby returned him at Augusta and Moylake. Now he feels that one or the other is due again and he won't be far away.

Walter Hagen, back from the fairways and the bunkers on the Continent, is said to have a much better golf than he played last year. He is nine holes in thirty-two shows that the old flame is still burning. He will handle the competitive greens as well as any one here, and while he won his first open championship years ago in the Middle West, he is far from being through.

Hagen upset the golf treasury by abandoning his gay and dashing knickerbockers to appear with the flannel trousers and a white shirt. He looked like a tennis player suddenly transplanted, but he played like a golfer-sooth he still has pegs to be.

This course should also suit Tommy Armour, one of the most accurate golfers that ever played, for straight shooting means something over this bunkered country, and Armour can keep them on the line with that right elbow that ain't tucked, never lifted to let his club get out of control.

Mac Smith will need cooler weather if they give him that, but won't be far away, for Mac says he has no complaint to make about the way he is hitting his shots.

Johnny Farrell is out to retrieve his misfortune at Winged Foot last year, where he took an eight on the eighth hole and killed his whole chance. He is playing much better golf now, and Johnny is good enough to show what a comeback means.

If the real subsidies, tremendous galleries are expected by Thursday, as there are so many stars in the line. And Bobby Jones, out to win his third major title in a row, is something golf has never before shown.

"There are quick and sudden turns in some of the greens, so you will hear the usual plaintive, bird-like cries of anguish about three-putt greens. But three planture cries are all part of golf.

For all that the putting here isn't any too simple, and many a ball will flutter up around the rim of the cup, look in, and decide to stay out.

SUMMER SQUASH RECIPES

In buying Summer squash, look for those that are small, thin skinned and with a fresh, waxy appearance.

Here are a few recipes to suggest different ways of preparing Summer squash and combining it with other foods.

Mashed Squash—One of the simple ways for preparing Summer squash is to cook it in very little water, mash it when cooked tender and add butter and cream, the same as you would in preparing mashed potatoes.

Baked Summer Squash—Use tender young squashes. Cut into halves, scoop out the seeds, place in a pan containing a very little hot water and bake until tender. Then chop, add butter and salt.

Summer Squash and Corn—Use the fine, scalloped, tender vegetables alike across the top, scoop out seeds. Add salt and butter, and fill with uncooked sweet corn grated from the cob. Steam one hour.

Summer Squash French Fried—Cut up like potatoes. Roll in Melba toast crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat.

McFadden's Summer Squash—Two pounds of squash, four tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of breadcrumbs. Mash the cooked squash when cold and add the pieces of butter. Put in a baking dish with crumbs over the top and dot with more butter. Bake until it is brown, in a moderately hot oven.

Celery, Squash and Potato Soup—One cupful of squash, peeled and diced, two potatoes (small) peeled and diced, two tablespoonfuls of celery, washed and chopped, water, one cupful of milk, seasoning. Boil for twenty minutes. Add milk and season and serve. Enough for four.

Squash Spanish—Lay rings of squash in a baking dish and pour over tomato sauce, sprinkle grated cheese on top and bake.

String Beans and Italian Squash—One and a half pounds of string beans, two Italian squashes, peeled and sliced; three tablespoonfuls of butter, seasoning. Boil beans for twenty-five minutes. Cook the Italian squash for fifteen minutes in the butter. Add to beans and cook together five minutes. Season.

Cucumbers and Italian Squash—Four cucumbers, peeled and sliced; four Italian squashes, peeled and sliced; four tablespoonfuls of butter, seasoning. Heat the butter in pan. Put in squash and cucumbers and cook slowly for fifteen minutes.

SHEPHERDESS RESCUES FLYER

CRASH BLIZZARD, EXPOSURE AND STARVATION FAIL TO STOP AVIATOR

Ministrations of Lonely Woman Tending Her Flock Help Him to Reach Safety

MENDOZA, Argentina, July 9.—Succored by a lonely shepherdess, Henri Guillaumet, French air mail aviator, endured the hardships of a plane crash, fall down a precipice, an Andean blizzard starvation and days without sleep, and lived to tell the tale.

An airplane brought him here from a mountain village, Paredites, where he was discovered by a provincial police official, more dead than alive. He had been missing for a week, and a widespread international search for him would have been abandoned in the belief that he was dead and his body and plane buried in the snows which have fallen in the Andes for days.

YARNING INJURIES

A medical examination revealed that the flyer was suffering from various injuries, principally severe bruises, incurred when he lost his footing on a mountainside glacier and tumbled 400 feet down a precipice. Guillaumet set out on foot from Santiago de Chile with mail and cargo for Mendoza, Argentine border city. The trip, under any circumstances, is difficult and dangerous, due to the high peaks of the Andes which must be surmounted. On this trip the aviator tried vainly to rise above them, but his wings gathered so much snow that his plane finally was weighted down and he made a forced landing on the side of a winter-swept mountain.

The plane turned over and was destroyed, but Guillaumet crawled out of the wreckage unhurt. The blizzard still raged as he spent the night beneath the wings of his plane, remaining awake so as not to freeze to death. The following day the weather cleared somewhat, and he saw an airplane fly high over him. He signaled, but apparently his frantic motions were not perceived.

FALL DOWN PRECIPICE

Next day he started to march through the mountains toward Mendoza, hardly hoping he would ever reach there alive. It was then he slipped on the ice and fell 150 meters down a precipice, losing from consciousness. He had with him and receiving injuries which made every minute until his rescue one of suffering.

Half starved and afraid to sleep, he marched on the fourth and fifth days over mountains and through snow-filled valleys, until the sixth day he stumbled into the presence of a lonely shepherdess tending her flock on the hillsides not many miles from Paredites. She was amazed but dressed his wounds, gave him food and found him a place to sleep.

Her administrations partially restored Guillaumet and gave him strength to go further. She directed him toward Paredites where he finally was discovered by a provincial policeman, who notified authorities and brought a plane there to carry him back to Mendoza.

Chilean, Argentine and United States private and military pilots aided in the search for Guillaumet, scanning hundreds of miles of territory on either side of the Cordilleras. News of his safety was greeted jubilantly both here and in Chile, where his disappearance had been a news sensation.

A combined bank and hat manufacturing company in Brazil failed recently with liabilities totaling $1,600,000.

Declared to have worked wonders with many who sought more slender figures, a new plan of a famous doctor in Berlin, Germany, is attracting patients from all parts of Europe. At the doctor's house no one ever is allowed to go hungry. He or she may eat cereals, fruit, vegetables, meat and poultry according to appetite. But what is strictly forbidden is the mixture of foods. It must be one thing at a time. Even butter must not go with bread.

Million-Dollar Diesel Yacht Is Equipped With Small Commuting Plane

(Special from the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Col. Edward A. Deeds, chairman of the Curtiss Aircraft and Transport Company, is the first American to install an airplane on his new million-dollar Diesel yacht. The owner plans to use the plane in commuting between his yacht and the shore, and for short trips from the yacht. It is a Bikorsky four-seater, with a radius of 600 miles.

The new Deeds' yacht has many new features. An electrical cooling unit maintains any desired temperature in the cabins, summer or Winter. A gymnasium includes an electric horse and an electric vibrator, and other apparatus. A trap box, from which clay pigeons are sprung by the crew for guests interested in trapshooting, is another feature.

Colonel Deeds, fifty-six, vice-president of the National City Bank, has been associated with some of the large American institutions before entering aircraft finance. He was vice-president of the National Cash Register Company, of Dayton, his home town, and later with the shredded Wheat Biscuit Company, at Niagara Falls. In 1917, he went to Washington as a member of the Aircraft Production Board, later to become chief of the aircraft production. Since then his time has largely been given over to aircraft development in its various phases.

Adjoining his country home at Dayton, Ohio, he has built one of the most modern private airplane fields of the country.

Returns to Esquimalt

Took First Load Of Timber Into Seattle by Ship

SEATTLE, July 9.—Terence O'Brien, eighty-one, the first man to ship a load of timber to Seattle, and founder of the town of O'Brien, died here last night. He came to Seattle in 1867 from Victoria, B.C.

HUSBAND SHIP OF BIG FLEET

Transport Gil Eanes Aids Sixty Vessels Carrying 2,400 Fishermen on Grand Banks

CENTURIES SINCE FISHING STARTED

HALIFAX, N.S., July 9.—An interesting visitor to this port recently was the Portuguese transport Gil Eanes, commanded by Captain Moreira, N.R.P. The mission of the Gil Eanes is to minister to the former and Fall months—is that of Arctic in the vessel of which he had been master for the past two years. The clothing on the body contained a considerable sum of money and a number of papers, by which the remains were identified. The body was buried in the city morgue.

Captain Gillen was very well known and highly regarded in shipping circles and on shore. Born in Nova Scotia, he was reared for the sea, and came West as a youngster to engage in the adventurous calling of sealing. Big, strong and a splendid seaman, he served as master or mate on a number of sealing craft. Since the close of that business, he followed British Columbia coasting.

MONEY MISSING

The possibility that Capt. Gillen was dragged, robbed and thrown into the water, is being investigated by police. When the body was found, only $161 was found in the pockets of the clothes. It has been practically established that when the master of the Hudson's Bay Company ship Old Mud No. 2, disappeared on June 2, he was carrying about $500.

Police seek to determine what became of the missing $340.

NAVY SHIP BACK FOR SHORT STAY

H.M.S. Dauntless Will Be at Esquimalt for Ten Days Before Proceeding South

H.M.S. Dauntless, in command of Capt. H. R. Moore, D.S.O., returned to Esquimalt yesterday, docking at the naval yard at noon, and will remain for the next ten days. During the stay of the ship, a number of social events have been planned for her officers and crew.

Since leaving Esquimalt, the crew of the Dauntless have been brushing up on rifle shooting and gunnery, entertaining and being entertained. During the period covered by the ship's present pay made many friends with their performances. The ship also took a prominent part in the manoeuvres in the vicinity of Maple Bay, and spent some time in Vancouver. Leaving the naval port at the end of next week, the Dauntless will proceed South, en route to her base in the West Indies.

MISSING MAN'S BODY FOUND IN BURRARD INLET

Remains Were Discovered Floating Near North Vancouver Ferry Wharf, Where Ship Lay

GILLEN WAS ROBBED POLICE NOW SUSPECT

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 9.—The body of Captain W. H. Gillen, aged fifty-eight, Hudson's Bay Company shipmaster, who disappeared on June 3, was found shortly after 10 a.m. today in the waters of Burrard Inlet, near the North Vancouver ferry wharf. The remains were found near where the captain's ship was lying when he disappeared.

Captain Gillen was last seen on June 3, when he left his ship, the Old Maid No. 2, to go to town. City police dragged the water in the area where his boat lay, but without result. Capt. Gillen, whom he disappeared, was about to sail for the Arctic in the vessel of which he had been master for the past two years.

The clothing on the body contained a considerable sum of money and a number of papers, by which the remains were identified. The body was buried in the city morgue.

Captain Gillen was very well known and highly regarded in shipping circles and on shore. Born in Nova Scotia, he was reared for the sea, and came West as a youngster to engage in the adventurous calling of sealing. Big, strong and a splendid seaman, he served as master or mate on a number of sealing craft. Since the close of that business, he followed British Columbia coasting.

New Lightship May Soon Replace Old Sandheads Vessel at Fraser Mouth

VANCOUVER, July 8.—A new lightship may soon be ordered for the mouth of the Fraser River.

Some years ago the Department of Marine, Ottawa, indicated that if Vancouver and New Westminster shipping interests could agree on a location for a new lightship for the mouth of the Fraser River, a new vessel would supplant the old Sandheads Lightship. The latter is now declared to be obsolete.

About a year ago a request, endorsed by New Westminster and Vancouver shipping interests and the pilots of both ports was prepared but not forwarded, owing to a slight difference of opinion on the part of operators of barges and ferries on the Fraser River. The aids to navigation committee of the Vancouver Chamber of Shipping is conferring with all interests and trusts shortly to have complete unanimity on the subject and hopes of early action toward actually getting a new lightship are held out.

The Korea had a fair passenger list and average cargo for the voyage. There were ninety-two passengers in all cases aboard, forty-five joining the ship here. Empress of Asia Due on Saturday With Large List

Many persons prominent in diplomatic and business affairs in the Far East are due to arrive here Saturday aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia. The white liner's list of 609 passengers includes: Emile Traversni, Swiss Minister to Japan; Luis Dupuy de Lome, Charge d'Affaires of the Spanish Legation at Tokio; Hon. W. T. Southern, Colonial Secretary at Hongkong and official member of the Legislative and Executive Councils; Y. Cortard, member of the German Trade Commission, Shanghai, and Mr. T. Stapleton, manager of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China. Mrs. E. M. Robey, prominent in Chicago and New York society, is also a passenger, returning from a tour in the Orient.

The Empress liner, under command of Capt. J. Bissett, R.N.R., is bringing a heavy cargo.

Shipping Held Up By Wage Dispute

AMOY, July 9.—Outbound shipping from Amoy to Singapore, Java, Siam and Rangoon, was paralyzed today because of the demands of local unions upon shipping companies for additional pay. Six large companies formed a committee to fight the demands and were refusing freight consigned to the points affected. Officials were attempting to arrange a settlement.

GREAT DERRICK SHIP COMPLETED

Elderman Line Vessel Capable of Lifting Nine Hundred and Fifty Tons

Referring to the furore which attended the consigning of the Clan and Bel companies' ships with big derricks for lifting 0C railway locomotives from off their decks, advices from Glasgow state that they are about to launch at Barcelona, just completed by the Elderman Line is a ship of 5,700 tons gross, with a deadweight carrying of about 8,500 tons.

The most remarkable features of the Barcelona are those relating to the handling equipment for handling cargo, which is so important in a modern ship. Besides fitting the high speed schedule in keen competition with other ships, when this vessel in port is nearly as serious a matter as it is with the big passenger liners. Forward of her bridge the Barcelona has one five-ton, one ten-ton and one twelve-ton ordinary cargo derricks, two three-tonners being just abaft the bridge house. For the after deck there is one twelve-ton, one ten-ton, six five-ton and three ten-ton derricks.

Apart from these ordinary derricks, serving the hatches, there is a forty-tone derrick aft. Forward, alongside No. 2 hold, which is specially designed and has a fifty-one-foot batch for carriage of locomotives, is the biggest derrick ever put afloat, a derrick with an ordinary lift of 125 tons, which has been tested by submitting load of 6 less than 146 tons from the wharf to the centre of the hold without the slightest sign of strain or of heeling.

S.S. SULARIA DUE

The S.S. Sularia, Canadian Line, from Glasgow and Liverpool, via Panama, and California, is due to dock at Rithet piers at noon Friday, with seventy-five tons of general cargo for Victoria, the cargo consisting of dry goods, cutlery and leather goods.

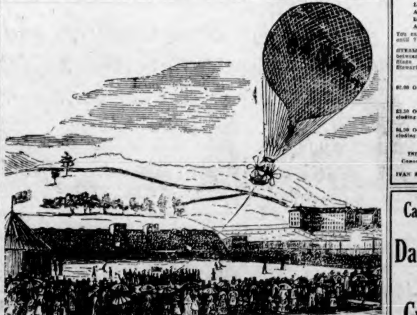
First Balloon Ascension in Canada



THE flight of the R-100 to Canada has brought to light the interesting fact that the first balloon flight in Canada took place at Montreal on June 21, 1878. The flight was sponsored by a Montreal newspaper, two Canadian inventors, Messrs. Dewar and Page, and a New York aeronaut, Professor Grimely. This was the first airship to fly in Canada. It used coal gas for inflation and was powered by cranking two propellers fashioned from sail cloth. The flight was not a pronounced success, although it caused considerable comment at the time.
